

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Prefatory Note.

THIS volume comprises the first four parts of an exhaustive work now being issued to subscribers, in serial form, entitled SUFFOLK MANORIAL FAMILIES, and edited by Joseph James Muskett, Esq., an accomplished Suffolk antiquary. These four parts relate exclusively to the Winthrops of Groton and families allied to them, and in their preparation Mr. Muskett has had the assistance of all the material I could furnish from the Winthrop Papers. Previous accounts of the Suffolk Winthrops and their connections have contained errors both of omission and commission, the result either of imperfect information or of placing too much reliance upon exploded family traditions. The present publication is largely composed of new matter, nowhere else to be found in print, and pains have been taken to state nothing in it as fact which cannot be proved. I have had fifty sets of these four parts bound in volumes, in order to deposit them in suitable libraries for permanent reference, and I have provided for them a separate titlepage and table of contents. No request to purchase any of these volumes will be considered; but persons who may desire to subscribe for the work itself can do so upon application to the Editor, care of J. MUSKETT YETTS, Esq., 56 Lincoln's Inn Fields, London.

Winthrop of Groton.

Armorial Bearings.

The origin of the Winthrop coat has been the subject of a variety of speculations, there being few instances of an animal superposed upon two or more chevrons. The earliest known representations of the Winthrop Arms are as follows :—

1. A Confirmation, dated June 24, 1592, by William Detheck, Garter, to John Winthrop (then of Groton Manor, afterward of Aghadowne, co. Cork) of the "Shield & Cote of Armes apperteyning to his Name and Ancestors," namely, Argent, three chevrons gules crenellés, over all a lion rampant sable armed and langued azure ; with the crest of a hare ppr. running on a mount vert. The original Confirmation, with the signature and seal of Detheck is still in existence, together with what appears to be a duplicate of it, but without a seal.

2. An emblazoned pedigree on parchment, illustrating the alliance of Winthrop and Forth in 1605, and signed, "Scrutavi, Ricardus S^t George, A^o domini 1^o Martii 1610."

3. The Visitation of Suffolk in 1612 ; and Harl. MS., No. 1820, which apparently formed part of the note-book of that Visitation. In these MSS. Winthrop impales Still of Lincolnshire.

4. Two armorial-seals (one Winthrop, the other Winthrop and Forth) affixed to letters written, in 1618, by John Winthrop, then of Groton Manor and afterward Governor of Massachusetts.

It is noticeable that these armorial-seals bear the three chevrons described in the Confirmation, while the pedigree of 1610 and the Visitation of 1612 display two chevrons only. It is difficult to account for this discrepancy, which may have resulted from some carelessness or misunderstanding. It is further noticeable that in the rough notes of the Confirmation preserved in the College of Arms, and in the trickings of the Visitation, the chevrons are plain and not embattled, which can only be accounted for by a similar supposition. Be this as it may, the true arms of Winthrop, as originally authorized by the heralds, require three crenellated chevrons, and, with rare exceptions, they have been so borne by successive generations of the family to the present time.

Latin Pedigree, 1498-1623.

Internal evidence shows the so-called "Latin Pedigree" of Winthrop (1498-1623) to have been chiefly compiled by the third Adam Winthrop (d. 1623), a fragment of whose Diary (1595-1610) is printed in the "Life and Letters of John Winthrop." The original record is not in existence, but the following is taken from a copy, in the handwriting of John Winthrop, F.R.S., when a young man, which is believed to date from 1705 :—

Non longo a Newarke super Trent est quidam vicus appellatus Winthorpe (vulgo Winthrop) ex quo Winthropi de Groton in com. Suffolciae nomen et originem suum habuerunt.¹

. . . . Adamus Winthropus de [Groton in comitatu Suffolciae armiger & dominus mannerii de Groton]² natus fuit in

. . . . Anno domini Adamus Winthropus uxorem duxit Joane Burton filia D: Burton.³

¹ This paragraph is suspected to have been an interpolation of the copyist, who may have chosen this method for chronicling what was undoubtedly an ancient family tradition. The will of a William Wynethorpe, of Wynethorpe, co. Notts, was proved May 4, 1445, and in it is mention of a son Robert, but there is no proof that the Suffolk Winthrops descend from either of them.

² The words in brackets are believed to have been an interpolation of the copyist. The third Adam W. must have known that the manor of Groton was acquired by his father, and not by his grandfather. There is no proof that the first Adam W. was of Groton, or that he was entitled to be styled armiger. A pedigree dated 1742 calls him "Serjeant-at-law," but there is no evidence of this, and it is very improbable.

³ The pedigree of 1742 (very unreliable) styles her widow of D: Burton and dau. and co-heir of D: Burnell.

. . . . Anno domini Adamus Winthrop cum gravissimo morbo expiravit.

. . . . Anno domini Joane Winthrop uxor Adami Winthrop ē vitā excessit.

1515. Anno quinto decimo supra millesimum quingentesimum et anno regni Regis Henrici octavi nono, Adamus Winthrop Londinum venit et se apprenticum cum Edwardo Altam¹ per decimum obligavit.

1526. Anno domini 1526 Adamus Winthrop admissus fuit in libertatem civitatis London: et juratus tempore Johannis Allein majoris et Johannis Husae camerarii ejusdem civitatis, viz., nono Septemb^r anno regni Regis Henrici octavi decimo octavo et anno aetatis suae vicessimo octavo.

1527. Anno domini 1527 decimo sexto die novembris et anno regni regis Henrici octavi decimo nono, uxorem primam duxit Aliciam Henny honestis parentibus natam.

1578. Anno domini 1578 secundo die junij Elizabetha uxor Wilhelmus Winthrop in Kent obiit, ex qua illi nati sunt 3 filii et 2 filiae, nomina Joshua, Adam, William, Elizabeth and Sarah.⁵

² In the margin of this entry are inserted the words "on fryday," evidently the day of the week on which the birth occurred.

³ She is not mentioned in her father's will, and undoubtedly died in childhood. It was about this time that he became Master of the Clothworkers Company of London, of which he had long been a prominent member.

⁴ The date of this marriage was June 7, 1563, as entered in the Groton Registers.

1579. Adam Winthrop was married to Anne my seconde wife, the daughter of Henry Browne, of Edwardston, clothier, the 20: day of february 1579 in the 22: yere of the reigne of Quene Elizabeth.¹

1604. Anno domini 1604 nono die augusti Susanna filia Adami Winthrop et Agnetae uxor ejus secundus in Coventry obiit, anno aetatis suae quinquagesimo secundo. Nupta fuisset D: Cottie⁵ . . .

² This list of children is partly illegible. Sir Thomas Mildmay was son of the William Mildmay, of Springfield, before-mentioned, and his son Henry became Sir Henry Mildmay of Graces, a distinguished soldier of the Irish wars.

³ This John Winthrop became one of the promoters of the Carbery plantation in the south of Ireland, acquiring an estate at Aghadowne, co. Cork, and eventually disposing of his life-interest in Groton Manor to his brother and nephew. He was long separated from his wife, from whom he took steps to obtain a divorce, and in his old age claimed to have married secondly Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Powliden, of Rathgogan, co. Cork, to whom and to whose children he devised his property, to the chagrin of his relations in Suffolk. His son by his first marriage died in boyhood, and his natural son, John Winthrop, younger of Aghadowne, died there unmarried in 1634. His executrix and alleged widow married Thomas Nott, one of the promoters of the Carbery plantation. The first wife, Elizabeth Rysby, married secondly one Reynold Braunch, of St. Saviour's, Southwark, the licence in the Bishop of London's Court being dated 8 July, 1617. A letter from Brampton Gardon to Gov. John Winthrop in New England alludes to her death at Southwark in 1637.

The so-called Latin pedigree of the third Adam Winthrop ends here, and it seems reasonable to assume that the copyist of 1705 did not have before him the record in its entirety, as it contains no mention of the deaths of the writer's daughters-in-law, or the second and third marriages of his son, or the births of any of his son's younger children. The following five references to some of these events are taken from the diary and almanacs already alluded to:—

1607. The xxth of Jan. my sonnes second sonne Henry was Christened at Groton. M^r Sands & my b. Snelling were his godfathers.

1609. Dec: 30: Forthe Winthrop was born.

1618. On fryday the 24th of Aprill my sonnes [third] wife came first to Groton. She was married to him the [torn] day of the same moneth at Greate Maplested in Essex.³

1618 [1619]. The 24: daye of Marche in the yere of our Lord 1618 Stephen Winthrop was born. The Ladye Anne Tyndal was his godmother and M^r Steven Egerton her brother & M^r Deane Tindal her son were his godfathers.

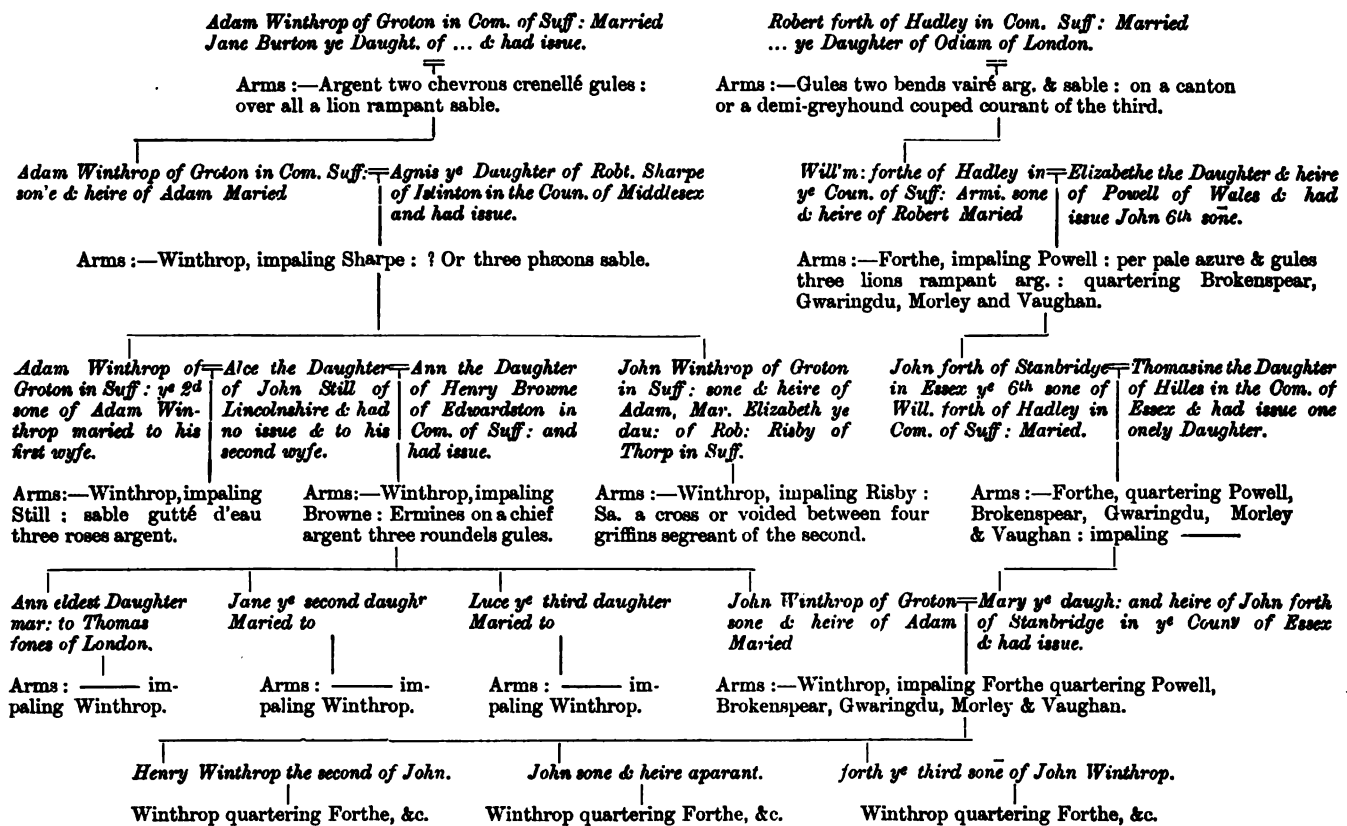

1620. Adam Winthrop the second sonne of John Winthrop Esquire and Margaret his third wife was borne in Groton on frydaie y^e seventh daie of y^e moneth of April in the yere of our Lorde one thousand sixe hundred and twentie and in y^e beginninge of y^e 18: yere of the reigne of our Sovereigne Lord Kinge James. He was baptised by M^r Nicholson y^e parson of Groton and named Adam by Adam Winthrop his grandfather, Philip Goslin the elder, Jane Goslin his fathers sister, & Mary Cole the wife of Joseph Cole, who were his godfathers & godmothers.

Emblazoned Pedigree, 1610.

The so-called "Emblazoned Pedigree," attested by Richard St. George, 1 March 1610, is in the possession of the heirs of the late Thomas Charles Winthrop, Esq., of New York. It is so faded and discoloured, through process of time, that the tinctures of the escutcheons cannot always be given with certainty. The arms attributed to Sharpe of Islington and Browne of Edwardstone do not appear to have been recorded in the Herald's College.

Harl. MS. No. 1820, fo. 16^b.

At fo. 1 of this MS. is a tricking of the arms of "Winthrop:" Ar. two chevrons gu.; over all a lion rampant sa., impaling Still: Sa. gutteè d'eau three roses ar., with the note, "Per Dethick, Garter, y^e 24 of June 1592 both of them." At fo. 73^b is a rough drawing of the crest of "Wintherop:" On a mount vert, a hare courant proper.

In the corresponding MS. in the Heralds' College, where the same arms are given, the marriage of John Winthrop with the daughter of Risby is omitted. Both MSS. contain inaccuracies. John was the second son, and Adam the third, of the second Adam Winthrop. John Forth was of Great Stambridge. There is no evidence whatever of his alleged connection with Stondon (or Standon) in Essex, and it is unlikely. There are omissions also. Important matches, as for example that of Alice Winthrop with Sir Thomas Mildmay, are altogether ignored. The pedigree would appear to have been jotted down, somewhat hastily, by Raven, during a personal interview with Adam Winthrop the Diarist, or his son John Winthrop, afterwards the well-known Governor of Massachusetts.

Will of John Winthrop of Groton, 1620.

Long before John Winthrop quitted England for Massachusetts, and while his father was still living, he made a will which, though never proved, has been preserved amongst the family papers in America. It is printed in extenso in his Life and Letters, Vol. i. 151, but for the sake of convenience and for its Suffolk allusions, an abstract is given in this place. It does not mention the entailed lands to which he afterwards succeeded. His second will of 1639 will be found in Vol. ii. 250, of that work.

“In the name of God, amen. This tenth day of May, in the year of our Lord God 1620 I John Wyntthrop of Groton, in the county of Suffolk, Esquire, being in sound mind and good health do make my last will and testament in matter following:—

First, I commend my soul into the hands of God, who hath called me into this grace wherein now I stand and rejoyce. My body I yield to the earth. For such temporal goods as I shall leave behind me, I commit to the care and disposition of Margaret my wife¹, [Mr. Adam Winthrop my father, Anne Winthrop my mother] and John Winthrop my son, whom I doe ordain executors¹ of this my will. Item, I doe give unto my said wife all those my lands and tenements which I lately purchased of William Forthe of Neyland, gentleman; viz, the two tenements and six acres of land, lying by Leven Heath, and ten acres of woodland; which land and woods are called by the several names of Masterman's Cross, Masterman's Grove, Stubbins Cross, Stubbins Grove and Homylies Grove; also one close of pasture-ground, called Little-pond Field, containing about eight acres, lying at the end of Neyland Town, towards Buers; and also three acres of meadow lying in Lowe's Meadow, in the parish of Assington, just by the said end of Neyland Town: all of which are more particularly expressed in a deed of feoffment from the said William Forthe to me made, bearing date the twenty seventh day of July, 1617: to have and to hold the said tenements, lands, pastures, and woods unto my said wife for term of her life; and after her decease, to remain to Adam my son, and to his heirs. I give unto my said son John all that messuage wherein I now dwell, together with that indenture of lease which I have in the same, and in certain acres of land in Groton being parcel of the rectory of the same parish. Item, whereas I have one parcel of land called Upper Crabtreewent, now in the occupation of Philip Gostlin the elder, which I have left out of former conveyances that I might lay it unto the parsonage of Groton, in satisfaction of the like quantity of land which I have of the same, I do hereby admonish my said son that he so dispose hereof as may be best to God's glory and the due recompense of the faithful incumbent; as myself purpose to do, if God spare me life.

“Item, for Mary my daughter, I will that my executors shall pay her grandfather Forthe his legacy of £240, to be paid her at her age of eighteen years, and withal, I commit her to the care of my executors to be well and Christianly educated with such goods as I shall leave unto them. Item, I will that my executors shall pay unto Luce Winthrop, my sister, one hundred and twenty pounds; one hundred whereof is due to her upon an agreement between my father and me upon the setting over his whole estate unto me. Item, I will that they shall pay unto Ezekiel Bonde threescore pounds, which is due to him of such legacies as my father was to pay unto him. Item, I will that my sons Henry and Forthe shall be brought up in learning, out of the rents they are to have by the will of their said grandfather Mr. Forthe. My other two sons Stephen and Adam I commend to the care of their mother, to be brought up in the fear of God. Item, I will that my executors shall pay my son Henry £13.6.8. yearly out of lands which should fall to him by his grandfather Forthe's will at his age of twenty-four years. Item, I make my loving wife and John my son executors of this my will; charging them that my debts may be truly paid; for performance whereof I do give unto my son John the lease of the house I dwell in, with the lands thereunto belonging and therewith occupied.

Will of Stephen Winthrop, 1658.

I Stephen Winthrop of James Streete in Westminster in the Countie of Midd. Esq^r, being sicke in bodie but of perfect minde and memorie, revoking and renouncing all former Wills by mee heretofore made, doe make and ordaine this my last Will and Testament as followeth. First I giue and bequeath to my well beloved Wife Judith Winthrop All that myne house wherein I now dwell, with the houses adioyning lately erected, and all the members and appurtenances thereunto belonging and alsoe my lands tenements and hereditaments in the Cittie of Westminster in the Countie of Midd. for and during the term of her natural life, and after her decease, then the said premises to come and discend to all my children whoe shall be then living to be equallie divided amongst them. Alsoe I doe giue and bequeath all the Rest of my Reall and Personall Estate to my Executors hereafter named, to be preserved sole or disposed of to and for the best advantage vse and behoofe of my Daughters Margarett, Johanna and Judith, and such child or children as my saide Wife shall be now great withall and shall be safely delivered, to be equally divided amongst them, onlie my Will and Meaning is that my Daughter Margarett, shall haue fiftie pounds of lawful money of England more than anie one of the rest of my children to buy her a ring, the said Margarett to receive her part or portion when she shall attaine to the age of one and twenty yeares or day of marriage, which shall first happen and not before, and alsoe the said Johanna to receive her part or portion when she shall attaine to the age of twentie and one yeares, or day of marriage, which shall first happen and not before, And alsoe the said Judith to receive her part or portion when she shall attaine the age of twentie and one yeares or day of marriage, which shall first happen and not before, and so likewise such child or children which my Wife is now great or pregnant with, all to receive their parte or parte portion or portions as the Rest of my children before named are to receive theires and noe otherwise. And if it shall happen that anie of my children shall die before they shall accomplish the age of one and twentie years or day of marriage, then my Will is that his, her, or there parts or portions shall be equallie divided amongst the Rest of my children which shall surviue, and my Will and meaning is that if it shall happen that all my said children but one shall die before they attaine the age of twentie and one yeares or dayes of marriage That then my Executors to pay or cause to be payd vnto my Nephew Adam Winthrop son of my Brother Adam Winthrop deceased one hundred pounds of lawful monie of England to be deducted out of my estate. And also to the children of my Brother Deane Winthrop fiftie pounds of lawful English money to be equally divided amongst them, to be alsoe deducted out of my estate. And alsoe to my Brother Samuel Winthrops children fiftie pounds of lawful English monie to be equally divided amongst them. And alsoe to my halfe Brother John Winthropps children fiftie pounds of lawfull English monie to be equally divided amongst them. And if it shall happen that all my saide children shall die before they shall attaine to the age of twenty and one yeares or dayes of marriage that then my Will and meaning is that my lands tenements and hereditaments except my fee farme rents shall come and discend vnto my saide Cozen or Nephew Adam Winthrop after the decease of my said Wife, and that my Personal Estate and fee farme rents to be divided as followeth, videlicet, to my said Wife five hundred poundes of lawful English monie To my Brother Deane Winthrops children three hundred pounds of lawfull monie of England to be equally divided amongst them if the said children of my said Brother Deane have not received the said Summe before mentioned of fiftie pounds, which if they shall have soe received, That then they shall haue but two hundred and fiftie pounds and noe more, and to my Brother Samuells Children two hundred pounds of lawfull monie of England if they haue not received the summe of fifty pounds abouesaid, which if they shall haue received the said summe then they to haue but one hundred and fiftie pounds and noe more to be equally divided amongst them. Introductory Note to Winthrop Pedigrees.

The Pedigrees here printed are derived from the following sources of information:—

1. Wills, Administrations, Parish-Registers, and other contemporary records.
2. The Diary of the third Adam Winthrop (1595-1610), and the account of his family compiled by him, known as the "Latin Pedigree."
3. The mass of Winthrop family-papers preserved in New England, selections from which have been in course of publication from 1825 to the present time, and now comprise two volumes of Winthrop's Journal (or History of N.E.), edited by the late Hon. James Savage, two volumes of the "Life and Letters of John Winthrop" (1587-1649) edited by the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, six volumes of miscellaneous selections, edited by Committees of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and much additional matter of importance scattered through other publications of the same Society.

The Pedigrees have also been collated with the Suffolk Visitation of 1612; with the two Harleian MSS. in the British Museum, numbered respectively Harl. MS. No. 1820, fo. 16^b (date 1611), Harl. MS. No. 1560 (date, seventeenth century); with the pedigree compiled by John Winthrop, F.R.S., in 1742; with the pedigree filed in the College of Arms in 1768 by Benjamin Winthrop, Governor of the Bank of England, and numbered C. 6. D. 14. The two last-named documents, however, abound in errors and omissions, which is the case with most genealogies of the Winthrop family, whether in print or manuscript.

The Editor thankfully records his obligations to Mr. Robert C. Winthrop, Jun., of Boston, U.S.A., for much valuable information concerning the different branches of his family, for much assistance in compiling the pedigrees, and for transcripts of ancient documents still in the possession of himself or his kinsmen on the other side of the Atlantic.

Among the Winthrop Papers in Boston U.S. are several letters from Jonathan Winthrop of Bandon to Fitz-John and Wait Winthrop, written in 1694-1698, and intimating a possibility of his emigrating to New England if he received encouragement. He addresses them as strangers, but kinsmen, without, however, giving any clue to the precise degree of relationship existing between them.

PEDIGREE E.

Winthrop of London.

The Editor has endeavoured without success to ascertain some missing names and dates in this pedigree and the one immediately preceding it.

Winthrop of Antigua.

(See Pedigree C.)

Samuel Winthrop was some time a student at Harvard College in N.E., but left without taking a degree in order to seek his fortune in foreign countries, his father having experienced pecuniary reverses. A letter of his, written in Latin soon after his arrival in Teneriffe in the autumn of 1645, shows that he had obtained employment in the Counting-room of a merchant named Ferdinand Body whose partner was one David Stephens, and where his fellow-clerk was "a Knight's sonne of Kent," whom he finds not capable. In the spring of 1647 he removed to Barbadoes, and some months later to St. Kitts, whence he wrote his father that he had received much kindness from the Governor, Sir Thomas Warner, and his lady, and also from one Captain Clement Everett. In January, 1648, he was in Fayal on his way to Holland, where he arrived early in April and where he married a few months later. He alludes to the miscarriage of a number of letters about this time and the particulars of his marriage are wanting, but Governor Winthrop wrote from Boston to his son John in November, 1648, "your brother Samuel is married in Holland to a Dutchwoman and intends to come this way and so to Barbadoes." This marriage must have taken place in June or July, as Samuel makes passing allusions to his "wife" in a letter dated "Rotterdam, August 7, 1648." In the summer of 1649 he was heard of in Antigua where he was acting as agent for one "Mr Rich of London," and where he appears to have resided until 1653-4, when he removed to St. Kitts, where several of his children were born. In September, 1657, he wrote his brother John expressing his deep regret that the cares of his business had obliged him repeatedly to postpone a visit to N.E., but he says he has sent his two elder sons thither to be educated. In October, 1660, he alludes to the possibility of his settling in N.E., but adds, "I have taken much paines out of nothing to gett an estate and it lying in landes and plantaçons I cannot so order them as to be a certain profit to me in my absence." In or about 1662 he returned to Antigua, where he resided until his death. In July, 1664, he writes his brother John that he had received more favours than he expected from the new Royal Governor, Lord Willoughby, and that the latter had confirmed him in his lands. In 1665, he writes his brother John an interesting account of the taking of Antigua by the French, whereby he suffered heavy pecuniary losses. Not long before, as a result of his intimacy with the celebrated George Fox during the latter's stay in the W.I., Samuel Winthrop had become a Quaker, and in Besse's "Sufferings of the people called Quakers" (vol. ii., p. 371), is a tribute to the courage displayed by him when a Commissioner to treat with the French. This change of faith does not appear to have lessened the esteem in which he was held, as in 1665, he was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Antigua and he continued in office until 1671. His letters to his family in N.E. give the impression of a man of affectionate disposition and deep religious feeling. The latest of them which has been preserved was written in January, 1673, from Barbadoes, whither he had gone on a visit to Lord Willoughby. He died in Antigua in the following year at the comparatively early age of forty-seven. West Indian records are in such a confused and unsatisfactory condition that his will has not been found, but it is known to have been dated December 8, 1672.

His wife died in the latter part of December, 1675, and her will (dated December 11, 1675) is in the Registry at St. John's, Antigua (lib. C. p. 97.)

She bequeaths to son Henry "all my part of Barbuda Island with all the stock." To son Samuel "all my part and share in [illeg.] and Long Island, with the stock, as well as my part of land and storehouses at St. John's, and my gray Barbuda horse." To dau. Eliz: Williams £6 sterling to buy a tankard. To dau. Sarah Jones ten thousand pounds of muscovado sugar and a silver tankard. To dau. Rebecca Winthrop forty thousand pounds of muscovado sugar (one-quarter of it on her attaining the age of sixteen), "also my side saddle and furniture thereunto belonging & a negro man to wait upon her, likewise y^e negro girl named Lucy, and a silver porringer, & all my wearing apparell." To son Stephen "all my part & share of Groton Hall plantation, also a negro named Barabas," but if son Stephen die before he marries the legacies to him to fall to son Samuel. "To Jonas Langford, for his care & trouble in looking after me in my sickness, four thousand pounds of muscovado sugar & my great Bible." My three friends Samuell Jones, Jonas Langford, and Edmund Hull to be overseers. "My will is that true Ministers of y^e Gospel, whom y^e world in scorn call Quakers, be entertained & accommodated freely, & assisted in what business or occasion they have, from time to time with all courtesy possible."

The son Stephen mentioned in this will died in childhood, and it is noticeable that there is no allusion to Joseph Winthrop, second son of the testatrix, probably for the reason that he was in independent circumstances. He died in the autumn of 1679, and his will (dated October 13, 1679) is on record at St. John's (lib. C. p. 117). He bequeaths to "sister Williams, sister Sarah Jones, & sister Rebecca Byam, £10 each to buy a piece of plate." Residue to wife & dau. but in event of dau.'s decease without issue, then to issue male of brother Samuel, failing which to issue male of brother Henry; "provided that whomsoever of my brother's sons shall enter into my estate shall pay out to Samuel and Thomas Williams my nephews one hundred thousand pounds of sugar to each of them, to my niece Elizabeth Williams three-score thousand pounds of sugar, to my niece Frances St. John fifty thousand pounds of sugar." Major William Barnes and Capt. Samuel Jones to be overseers. Beloved wife Katherine and dear dau. Sarah sole executrixes.

The foregoing are the only two early Winthrop wills which have thus far come to light in Antigua.

In a work entitled "Antigua and the Antiguans," published in London in 1844, and abounding in errors, it is stated that the sons of Samuel Winthrop "inherited a large estate from their father, but by means, it is said, little creditable to the parties concerned, were deprived of their patrimony." There appears to be no evidence of the truth of this statement. The two younger sons, Joseph and Samuel, died while comparatively young men, leaving landed property to heirs female. The eldest son, Henry, became pecuniarily embarrassed and most of his land was sold.

The will of William Milton, or Millden, 1st husband of Samuel W.'s eldest dau., Elizabeth, constitutes Samuel W. one of his executors, and devises one third of his estate "unto my espoused wife, M^{rs} Elizabeth Winthorpe, daughter of the said Capt. Sam: Winthorpe." Will dated Nov. 11, 1666 (P.C.C. Bence 32; previous probate in Antigua?)

The will of Col. Samuel Jones, husband of Samuel W.'s dau. Sarah, is dated June 15, 1684 and makes her sole heir to over 1,000 acres of land.

The will of Lieut.-Col. Willoughby Byam, husband of Samuel Winthrop's dau. Rebecca, was proved March 21, 1692. He devises his property in trust to his brother, Capt. Edward Byam, and his brothers-in-law, Major Fran: Carlisle and Capt. Sam: Winthrop, for his two sons, William and Samuel, and his three daughters, Dorothy, Elizabeth, and Sarah, "all under age and to be sent to England to be educated." His wife had apparently predeceased him.

Roger Ponder was appointed Rector of Groton, in Suffolk, in 1546 on the presentation of Adam Winthrop, his half brother, the Lord of the Manor and Patron of the Church. In 1558 he was presented to the Rectory of Yeldham Magna in Essex by John de Vere, Earl of Oxford. See "Newcourt's Repertorium," Vol. II., 689.

Chancery Proceedings. Ponder v Mann, 1604.

"John Ponder of Brainktre in the Countie of Essex, gentleman, about the month of february in the nineteenth yeare of Her late Majestie Queene Elizabeth, did buy of onc Joseph Man, then of Brainktre aforesaide, the mannor and capitall messuage called Symmells in Hawsted and Stysted in the saide countie of Essex." It was stipulated that purchaser should be saved from all disturbance of Eleanor the wife of said Joseph Mann. About the month of April in the thirty seventh year of Queen Elizabeth controversies arose which were submitted to arbitrators, and agreements were concluded; Mann to deliver a general release, which was signed on the third of July following. About June, 1603, Mann made his will, leaving goods of great value to Eleanor his relict and executrix, who now demands dower &c. in said lands. In her answer the widow bases her case which is a complicated one, upon the wording of the release. "Compl^t," she says, "is a man lyttered, and noe doubt he did reade the deed before he ensealed the same."

P.C.C. 8 Wrastley.

From an Indenture, dated 13 Sept. 2 Edward VI. [Close Roll, 4. Ed. 6. 5th part] we learn that Ellen then wife of Richard Owtred but formerly wife of Thomas Ecton of Barking in Essex, had sold lands (late the property of the said Thomas Ecton and of Gabriel Ecton their son) to John Purvey Citizen and leather seller of London. Dorothy Acton, or Ecton, who made the above will and Matthew Owtred were probably children of this Ellen, but the exact relationship to the Sharpes and Wynthrops is as yet unknown.

Alabaster Inscriptions—Hadleigh Church.

On a brass plate, beneath the figure of a man at prayer:—

“Here lieth buried Thomas Alabaster, who being about 70 yeares old, whereof having lyved in this Town a Clothier above 40 yeeres, always a godly, vertuous and discreet life, he dyed in the faith of Christ Jesus Our Saviour on the 12th day of Jan^r 1592.”

On a brass plate beneath the figure of a man:—

“Here lieth buried the Body of John Alabaster, late of this Town, Clothier, who lived a godly & discreet life, & was of a holy conversation, for whose death the rich did mourn & the Poor did much lament. He was kind to the Rich & merciful to the Poore and lovinge to all: he was twice Mayor of this Town and was married to Mary his wife fifty & one years and had by her tow sons, & nine daughters, and was threescore and sixteen years old, & departed this life the 21st Ap. 1637.”

There is another inscription, much defaced, in Latin verse, with some Greek, to the memory of “Johannes Alabaster, mercator . . . MDCLIV.” Of him Candler says (Harl. MS. 6071.) “He was grandchild to John last named. John, his father, is yet living this 26 of May 1656. He left one daughter married to William Gilbert Rector of Burnt Elie.”

Armorial Bearings.

Harleian MS. 1820, before alluded to as being, in all probability, Raven's note book during his Visitation of Suffolk, 1611-12, has a sketch on folio 1^b of the arms of "Vesye, per Cooke 1576":—Ermine, on a cross sable, five martlets or. On fo. 73^b is the crest of "Vesy, per Cooke":—An arm embowed and couped at the shoulder, erect from the elbow, habited gules, the cuff ermine, holding in the hand proper, five leaves vert; a crescent for difference. Harl. MSS. 891 and 1560 give but four leaves. The eldest branch of the Suffolk family was, as we know, represented by the Vesey of Wix Abbey in Essex. At fo. 2^b are the arms of "Doyle, wyfe to Vesye":—Gules, three stags' heads, argent, attired or.

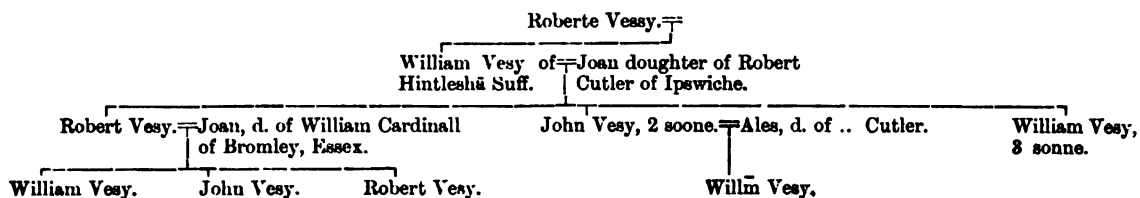

The arms of "Vesey of Hintlesham" in the Visitation of 1664, Harl. MS. 1085, had a mullet for difference, their ancestor having been a third son. "Vesey of Bradwell" had his mullet charged with a crescent. "Vesey of Aldham" had a similar shield, with, however, the ominous note appended, "See Raven."

For the claim of the Vesey of Aldham, if indeed they ever made it, to be near cousins of the Hintlesham Vesey, is somewhat doubtful. It is clearly discountenanced by their arms, as tricked by Raven on the very first page of his note book, Harl. MS. 1820; "Vesy, per Cooke": Ermine, on a cross sable, five martlets or, all within a bordure of the last; impaling Church, Argent, on a fess engrailed between three greyhounds' heads erased sable, three trefoils slipped of the last; the crest as before described; the whole being the achievement of the Thomas Vesey of Aldham who married Elizabeth Church of Maldon in Essex, and was living when Raven made his Visitation of Suffolk in 1612.

Risby of Thorpe Morieux.

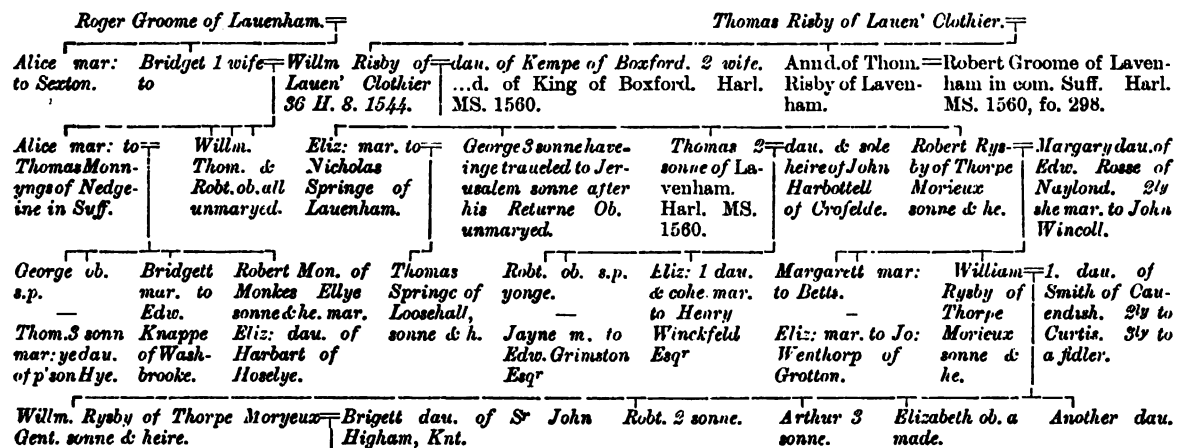

Armorial Bearings.

The Arms of Risby of Thorpe Morieux, as recorded in Raven's note book (Harl. MS. 1820), during his Suffolk Vistation of 1611-12, were:—"Sable, on a cross voided five billets between four griffins segreant, Or: and the Crest, an arm couped at the shoulder, embowed, in mail proper: in the hand, proper, four ears of wheat, Or, stalked Vert. Harl. MS. 1560, fo. 159, has ears and stalks alike Vert. In the Emblazoned Pedigree of Winthrop, on page 9, which is confessedly faded and discoloured, the billets are not apparent. Other modifications of this coat are given in the Heraldic Dictionaries.

But in Bysshe's Visitation of Suffolk, 1664, the Arms of Risby are altogether different, viz.:—Gules, on a bend Argent, three cross crozlets Sable. They are so tricked in Harl. MS. 1085, which gives the Arms of the Suffolk and Essex families in the Visitations of that year, and in the corresponding MS. at the College of Arms. This shield, with occasional modifications, is carved on the Risby tombstones in the churches of Thorpe Morieux and Felsham, together with a Crest, On a chapeau, a goat passant. Add. MS. 19,088 fo. 287, and Add. MS. 19,019 fo. 84.

Risby Pedigree: Harl. MS., 1174.

The Risby pedigree, Harl. MS. 1174, fo. 88^b, inexact as it is, has been followed more or less closely by other ancient MSS. and possesses much genealogical value. It is in the handwriting of Henry Lilly, Rouge Croix, ante 1638. With this agrees the most part of the Risby pedigree, Harl. MS. 1560.

And had issue dyuers children:—John Risby and others; a daughter ux. Thom. Spring of Loosehall. Harl. MS. 1560.

Will of John Risby, 1687.

I John Risby of Thorpe Morieux in the county of Suff. Esq^r make this my last will this 27 April 1687. I have lately leaved a ffine of my estate and declare the same to be to the onely use of me & my heires for ever. I have a great confidence in Elizabeth my deare wife and hoping that she, by her care and prudence, will see order my estate as provision may be made for raising of portions for my children, and for their education and maintenance, I declare my mind to be that the said Elizabeth shall receive the rents of all my manors for the six yeares next coming after my decease, and make sale of soe much of my goods as she shall please for payment of portions to be given to my six daughters, Elizabeth Risby, Margaret Risby, Jane Risby, Mary Risby, Anne Risby and Catherine Risby. If not sufficient, I will the lands in Elmsett of William Smith Esq^r deceased shall be sold and the money be employed by my said wife. I devise unto Heigham Risby, my second son, one yeaerly rent of forty pounds during life out of mesuage in Thorpe Morieux. Unto Charles Risby, my youngest son, one other like annuity out of mesuage in Felsham. I request that my wife accept of one hundred and twenty pounds per ann^o for life in lieu of her Dower. My Mannors &c. unto John Risby my eldest sonne for fourscore and nineteen yeares if he shall see long live, and after the determination of that estate then to the use of Jeffry Maltward Esq^r and Robert Maltward Esq^r and their heyres to preserve the contingent use. For default of issue male of the body of the said John Risby I give the same land unto the said Heigham Risby my second sonne and heyres of his body, and for default of such to Charles Risby my sonne and to the heires of his body and for default of such unto my six daughters and their respective heyres for ever equally to be divided. My cheife Mansion house called Thorpe Hall (and) those my lands in Elmesett, fflowton and Hindlesham, late the said William Smiths, unto the said John Risby my son and his heires fir ever. Probatum Sexti die May 1687 Juramento Elizæ Relictæ et unicæ Execut. P.C.C. 67 Foote.

By his will, 8 July 1662, proved in the Registry of the Archdeacoury of Sudbury, (Rex Redux, fo. 389) William Smith Esq^r of Elmsett, left his lands to John Risbie of Thorpe Morieux, the husband of Elizabeth Cornwallis his granddaughter. The Visitation of Suffolk, 1611, describes him as son and heir of Adrian Smyth. He had then two daughters, Sarah and Elizabeth. The former he specially commends to the care of his executors. The latter married Francis Cornwallis Esq^r of Yorkshire, and became the mother of Elizabeth Risby.

S^{nt}ia [Sententia or Decree] inter John Duke ex^{or} et Judith Snelling relc.

P.C.C. 48 Meade.

By his Inquisition Post Mortem (Palmer's Calendars, 100, fo. 424) it would appear that John Snelling, who died 8 March, 15 James I., was seized of the manor of Shimplingthorne, co. Suffolk, and of lands in Suffolk and Essex. Anne his daughter and sole heiress, wife of John Duke, M.D., being then thirty years of age.

In the 38th year of Queen Elizabeth John Snelling, in conjunction with Philip Gostlin (whose son, Thomas Gostlin, married one of the daughters of the third Adam Winthrop), founded the free grammar school of Boxford. The charter establishing this institution will be given, with the other evidences of the Gostlin family, further on.

Will of John Duke of Colchester, 1629.

I John Duke of Colchester, desirous to performe the dutie of a Christian man to leaue myne estate in such a certaintie as that there maie be noe difference about the same after my death, doe make my will in forme following. And first I bequeath my soule to my good god, from whom I certainly expect everlastinge happines by the all sufficient sacrifice of my lord Jesus Christ. And for my bodie my will is that without pompe it be comitted to the earth. I togeather with my beloved wief, Anna Duke, haue already ioyned in the settlinge of my landes, beinge freehold, in Essex and Suffolke, vpon our three children, Mary, Elizabeth and Judith. Anne my wief shall haue my coppihould landes and tenements in Bildeston and Nedginge in the countie of Suffolk, and in little Bromley in the countie of Essex, duringe the terme of her naturall lief, and after her decease the same shall remayne to the vse of my daughter Judith Duke, and for default of yssue to the vse of Mary Wright wief of Lawrence Wright, Doctor of Physicke, and Elizabeth Duke, my daughters, their heires and assignes for ever. To the said Anna Duke my wief my coppihould wood called ffroste grove in Langham in the countie of Essex, and after her decease to Elizabeth Duke my daughter. All the lands and tenements lying in Norfolke, which I purchased of M^r ffountaine, vnto the aforesaid Anne my wief, vpon condicon that the saide Anne be bound for the true payment vnto my three daughters Marie, Elizabeth, and Judith of all legacies. Vnto my daughter Marie one hundreth and fiftie pounds; and to each of my daughters, Elizabeth and Judith fortie pounds p ann. vntill their severall ages of twentie yeares and one or marriage daies, and paying also vnto each, at their severall ages of twentie yeares and one, the some of seaven hundreth pounds a peece, in full satisfaccon of the last will of John Snelling their grandfather. I giue and bequeath to my lovinge sonne Lawrence Wright all my bookes except my English books, which I giue to my wife to dispose of to her children. To my welbeloued cosens M^r John Winthrop and William Armitage, to either of them three poundes to make them rings; whom I make supervisors. To the two children of Prudence Thorne my sisters daughters deceased, to either of them thirtie shillings. To Anna Hmffrey five poundes. To the poore of Colchester twentie poundes. All my goodes, Jewells, and household stuffe, to my well beloued wief, Anna Duke, for life: after her decease to my three daughters or their posteritie, as my said wief shall dispose vnto them by her last will. I ordaine said wief sole executrix to see my children brought vpp in good nurture and the feare of the lord vntill they be married. This my will I haue written with myne owne hand and published the thirtie daie of Aprill 1629. There is due to the executors of Macillis Greenerice, fower score ster [sic] of lawfull money of England: my will is that that some shall be paid by myne executrix. I giue to Marie Wright my daughter all my coppihould land in Lexden neere Colchester. To Judith Duke my coppihould land in little Bently, and for want of yssue, to the right heires of me the said John Duke. And whereas my will was dated before the last of Aprill, this was thus perfected the first daie of May. Gyles firmin, a witness. Probatum 27 Junij 1629, juramento Anne Duke relicte et executricis. Will of Thomas Cooke of Pebmarsh, 1679.

Thomas Cooke of Pebmarsh in the county of Essex Esquire. My desire is that my body may be decently buried, without pompe and ceremouyes, in the churchyard of Pebmarsh, betwene the graves of my beloved and entirely loving wives, Elizabeth and Judith. And being so buried, I require mine executors to cause our three grves (together with my sonne John's on the northside of his mother's) to be raised with good bricke, and a large stone to be laid vpon them. Tenne li. shall be laid out on a purchase of some house or houses neare the church, to be imployed for the more comfortable releife of the aged poore of Pebmersh, according to the intention of the ffirst donors, in addition to the provisions [already made]. I doe also give five pounds more to be distributed amonge the poorer sort of wel disposed people. Item to every of my brothers and sisters children, twenty pounds a peece. Eleven pounds more to be distributed among such poore ministeres as are turned out of their livings because they conforme not. To Joseph Cooke, my brother, and his wife; M^{rs} Arrowsmith; M^{rs} Parsons and M^{rs} Horton [property] as was M^r Percivalls their ffather in his life time. It. I do giue vnto my daughter Elizabeth her mothers Bible, that she may improue it as she did. It. vnto Joseph Cooke my brother ffifteene hundred pounds for the redeeming of Huntshall in Pebmersh, vpon this condition, that if my sonne and daughter Parsons shall release vnto him all the right which they haue in my said ffarme called Huntshall, this bequest to be void. And I do then give Huntshall vnto my said brother Joseph, and after his decease to his son Thomas and his heirs for ever, [the latter] paying vnto his sisters here in England twenty pounds a peece, and to his brother and sister in New England, also twenty pounds a peece. I do give to be solde by my executors, my ffarme in Gestingthorpe called Goddards, and [a] ffarme in Pebmershe. All the residue of my reall and personall estate vnto Elizabeth my daughter, and after her decease, the goods to her children as she shall please, and the land and real estate to her sonne John Parsons my grandchild, and to the heires of his body, his mother allowing him good maintenance for his liberall education, and he (when he shall enjoy the land) paying to his sister Anthonea three hundred pounds, and the rest of his mothers children, which she may hereafter haue, one hundred pounds a peece. Item I doe giue vnto Anthony Parsons my sonne (if he will accept of it) my best ffurre coat and what bookes he please. My Polyglott Bible to my nephew Grandorge, and my watch to my cozen Samuell Read, and my law books to my nephew John Bennett. Lastly I ordaine my welbeloved daughter Elizabeth Parsons, my cozen Samuell Read, my nephew John Bennett and my nephew Isaac Grandridge [sic], executors. The — day of January 1679. Probatum vicesimo quarto Novembris, 1682, Juramento Johannis Bennett, &c.

P.C.C. 128 Cottle.

Thomas Cooke was Colonel of the Militia for Essex during the Civil Wars. He was created D.C.L. at Oxford, 9 Sept., 1651, and in 1654, M.P. for Essex in Cromwell's Parliament. He married, first, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of John Duke of Colchester, M.D., by whom he had seven sons and four daughters. His second wife was Judith, daughter of Oliver St. John, of Keyshoe in Bedfordshire, Esq. He dyed about 1684. Hunt's tenement in Pebmarsh hath since belonged to Anthony Parsons his sonne in law and heir.

Humblie complaynyng sheweth vnto yo^r honors Henry Sackford Esquyre, one of the Maysters of her Ma^{tie}s privie Purse. Yo^r orator by casualtie of shipwreacke is become greatlye impoulyshed and indebted ; namely to one Henry Browne & one Phyllip Gostling of Boxford in the countye of Suffolke, clothyers, to one Henrye Vyntner of Edwardstone in the sayd countye &c., &c. in great sumes of money. Which debts oryginally grewe for clothes and other wares w^{ch} yo^r orator was enforced to take vpp vppon many a hard penyworth ; yett yo^r orator entendeth to make full satisfactyon yf there myght be reasonable tyme pmytted vnto hym. And further yo^r orator standeth indebted vnto her Ma^{tie}s by reason of money by hym received ; for the payment of w^{ch} yo^r orators lands and goods are fyrst lyable. Also yo^r orator is an Accomptant in her Ma^{tie}s Court of Eschequer & ought to haue the privilegedge of the sayd Court. But so yt is that the aforesayd Henry Browne, Phyllip Gostlyng, &c. &c. haue comēced their seullall suyts agaynst yo^r orator at the comōn lawe, entending his vtter vndoing. May yt please yo^r good Lp^s to grant the Quenes Ma^{tie}s gracious wrytte of Subpen^o to be directed to the sayd Henrye Browne &c. comaūding them to appeare in the Quenes Court of Eschequer, and to desist from sueing yo^r orator at the comōn lawe. And yo^r sayd orator shall dailie praye vnto almyghtie God for the pspous estates & long lyves of yo^r hono^r.

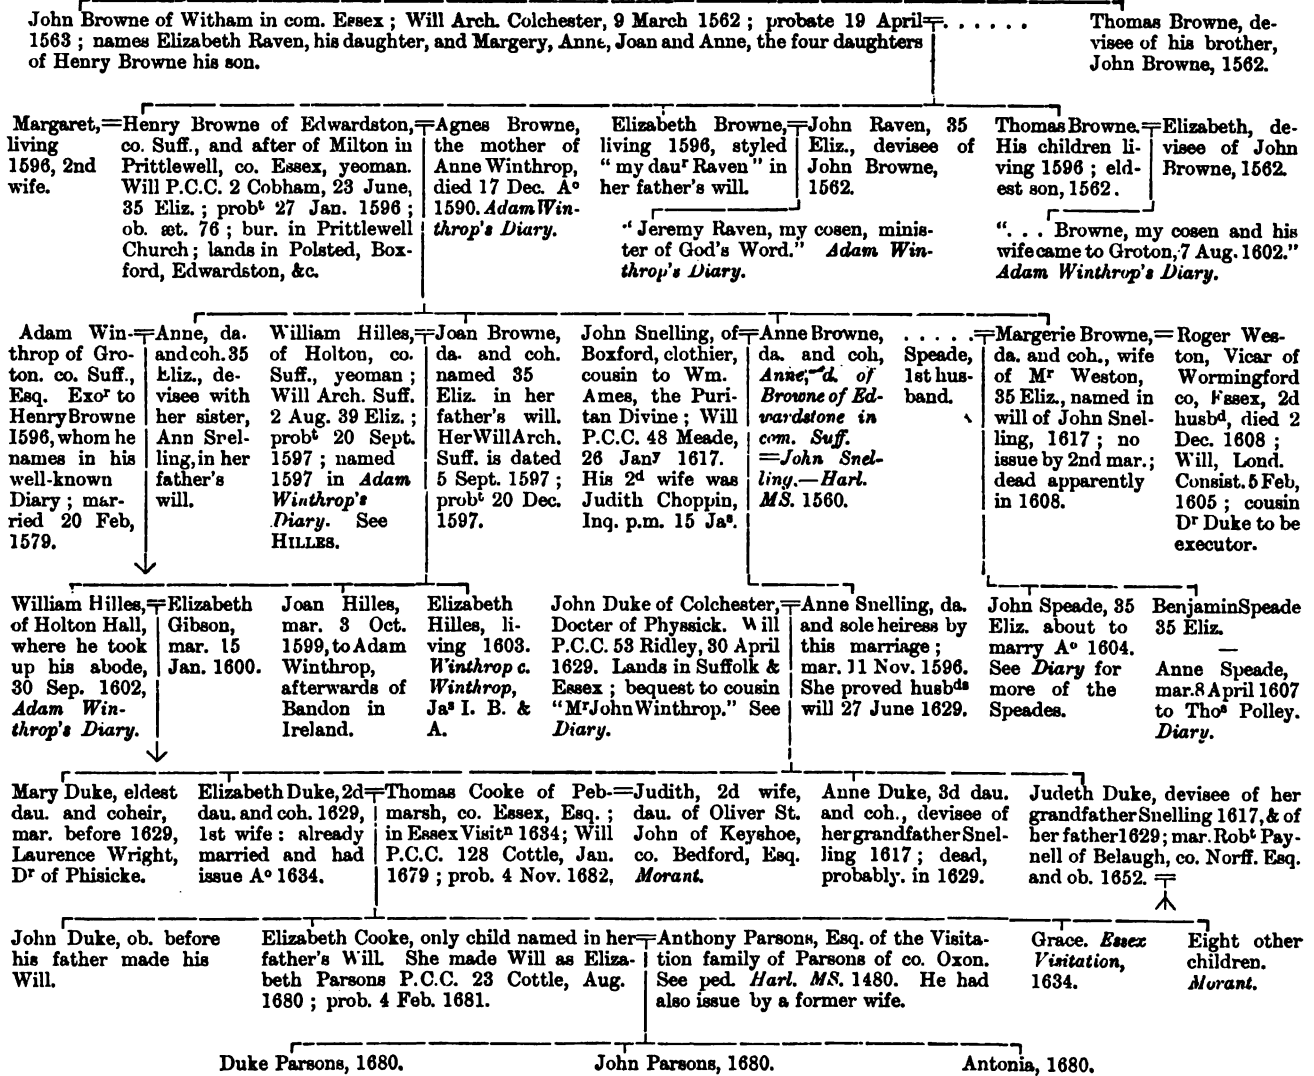

The Jointe & seullall Aunswere of Henrye Browne & Phillipe Goslyn & Henrye Vyntener defendt^r. Phillipe Goslyn sayeth that he did sell vnto Thomas Calthrope and Michael Stacey, deputies for Compl^t, about fortye brod colored clothes for two hundreth and thirte pounds, of which ther remayneth dewe the some of fortye pounds w^{ch} this Defend^t hath gentlye required of the Pl^t, but hath receyved verye hard speaches. Whervppon this Defend^t hath comēced suyte in her Ma^{tie}s Court of Comōn Plees as he thinketh lawfull is for hym to doe. And Henry Browne sayeth that in or about the nynetenth yeare of the Quen^s raigne he did sell vnto the said Thomas Caltrope and Michael Stacey fortye colored brod clothes, and recyved money at dyūse tymes, so as ther remayneth dewe unto him the some of eight and thirte poundes And Henrye Vyntener sayeth that he did sell for the Compl^t vse dyūse brod colored clothes, & ther remayneth dewe one hundreth and fyve pounds. And the said Defd^t sayen that they are well contented yf Compl^t will put in good suertye to paye their seullall debts w^{ch} reasonable costs and will staye their suyts ; otherwise by protracte of tyme their witnesses or the Compl^t maye dye ; and then they shalbe wthout remedye. Fones of Rusted.

Will of Thomas Fones, 1629.

Thomas Fones citizen and apothecary of London 14 April 1629. Having already by acts executed in my life time disposed of the greater part of my personal estate to and among my children and to the use and benefit of my wife I do hereby commit the tuition, education, care and tutelage of my son Samuel Fones during his minority unto his uncle John Wynthrop of Groton in the County of Suffolk Esq^r, John White of the Middle Temple London, Esq^r and James Thurlby citizen and grocer of London, and do earnestly desire these my loving friends to have a special care that he be brought up in learning and in the fear of God and knowledge of his ways; and do charge and require my son, upon my blessing, to subject himself unto them and to be ruled by them in all things. And the tuition and education of my daughters Elizabeth and Martha I do commit unto my said loving brother John Wynthropp until they shall be married or attain their full age of one and twenty years. The tuition of my youngest daughter Mary I commit to my loving wife her mother. My loving wife Priscilla Fones and my loving brother John Wynthropp to be executors, &c. Witnesses: John Smith, Ri. Fitch, Tho: Smith. Probate 29 April 1629. P.C.C. 28 Ridley.

Fones of Cornwall.

The ancient document, endorsed "Tho^s Fones his pedigre" which is here given verbatim, was found amongst the papers of Governor John Winthrop. It is evidently based upon the Fones pedigree in the Visitation of Cornwall, 1620, with which it is now collated (Harl. MS. 1162). It appears to have been compiled in or about 1629. In the margin is a sketch of the Fones shield:—two eagles displayed in chief, with a mullet in base. Opposite the first marriage of Thomas Fones is a rough tricking of Fones impaling Winthrop:—a lion rampant superposed upon three chevrons.

Will of Philip Gostlin, 1629.

The fower and twentieth day of february, 1629, I Phillip Gostlin of Romford in the Countie of Essex, Clothier, considering the certaintye of death, and the vncertaintye of the tyme how soone or suddenly it maye please God to call me, have therefore ordayned and made this my will. first I doe commend my soule into the hands of Almightye God, trusting through Christ's merritts that my sinnes are forgiven, and that at the last day I shall appeare amongst the holy elect children of God. And my body I comitt to the earth from whence it came, thither to be brought in that Christian forme of buryall as becometh a playne man's corps. Item I give vnto Mary Gostlin my wife fower parcells of pasture or wood called Hekeses, conteyning twenty acres or more in the parish of Groton in the Countie of Suffolke, for life, and after her death to the issue of mee the said Phillip and Mary my wife. Alsoe I give unto Mary the goods that are in the George at Romford. Item I give vnto Phillip Gostlin my sonne one messuage or farm house called Goodines and Hasetes conteyning thirtie two acres more or less. Alsoe my seale ringe w^{ch} was given me by my ffather. Item I give and bequeath to my sonne Steven Gostlin one pcell of land called Balerds, and alsoe one hundred pounds to be paid him by his vnclie Steven Coöke. More, I give vnto Mary my now wife all my bills and bonds. To the poore of Groton twenty shillings. Vnto the poore of the towne of Romford twentie shillings. Item I give to M^r Mosse for a sermon at my funerall tenne shillings. Item I doe make my ffather ffish of Romford to be overseer of this my will. Item I doe make Mary my wife to be my whole executrix. And if it shall happen she the said Mary to die and leave noe issue of our two bodies then the said land formerly given shalbe equallie divided betweene my two sonnes, they paying to my wives sonne Richard Norris, tenne pounds. Rich: ffish Scrip: Probatum sexto die Decembris 1631 Juramento Marie Gostlin Relicti et Executricis. P.C.C. 133 St. John.

Ballards, Goodwyns and Hersents were the property of the second Adam Winthrop, temp. Edward the Sixth, and were holden of the Honour of Clare (see page 33). In 1604, Philip Gostlin of Groton, the testator's father, who had purchased Goodwyn's and Hersants of one Robert Dixon, sued Jasper Huggins, the husband of Dixon's widow, for recovery of the title deeds, under colour of which the Huggins had stripped the premises and even secretly sold them (James I. B. & A., G. 4. 73). The Chancery Bill is signed by the third Adam Winthrop, who was counsel for the plaintiff, and evidently won the case.

Thomas Gostlin of Groton, 1612—1649.

Thomas Gostlin, a Suffolk clothier, was married at Groton, 5 January, 1612, to Jane, second daughter of the third Adam Winthrop. The births of twelve children, which followed this union, are recorded in the parish registers or the Winthrop Diary. Alice, the youngest, was baptised on the tenth of April, 1636. In a letter to his brother-in-law, John Winthrop, dated Groton, March 2, 1639, Thomas Gostlin explains his reasons for not having carried out his purpose of emigrating to New England. At the outset his wife was indisposed to go, and now that she is willing their means will not admit of it. He adds "we have a great desyer to send you y^{or} godson, o^r sonn John, to be employed by you, & indeed we had sent him now but for want of moneys." There is no record, however, that John Gostlin came over, and he died in or before 1649, as appears by a letter from his father in that year to John Winthrop, Junr., in which occurs the following passage:—"We have lost many of o^r family since your departure¹: my sonn Willis, my sonn John, my daughter Mary, my sonn Wolfe,—these are all gone. The Lord fit us for o^r change . . . My wife desyours to be remembered to you all. My cosen Stephen Winthrops wife also desyours to be remembered. She hath bin wth me above this halfe yeare. Her husband is in Wales. She laye in heere & hathe a fine girle. My daughter Willis hath changed her name to Bretland. She is married into the north. She sent writings to y^r father concerning some estate she should have in Virginia. I praye doe what you can for her."

Confirmatory of the above is a letter from Anne Willis about her claim to an estate in Virginia, originally granted to William Willis, deceased, and then in the occupation of Justinian Cooper. There is also a power of attorney, in which she is described as "Ann Willis of Chettle in the county of Dorset, widdowe of Nathaneall Willis deceased." A Zachariah Willis, presumably a brother of her husband, joins in the power.

One, at least, of the children of Thomas Gostlin and Jane Winthrop seems to have settled in America. In a letter from Mrs. Emmanuel Downing to her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Winthrop, written from Salem in New England, without date, but probably in 1639, she says:—"I hear Margaret Gostlin and my Nan is a cominge [from England], and nowe I shall be over mayded. I hear you want one: if you doe, I should be glad she might serv you till some of our children or seruants wear disposed of. She doth all the worst worke in her mothers howes and is very servisable." Margaret Gostlin would then have been about twenty years of age. She subsequently married . . . Heathcote. For an interesting letter from her in Antigua, June 27, 1665, see "Massachusetts Historical Society's Proceedings," Series 2, vol. v.

Benjamin Gostlin, 1615--1679.

As told in the Winthrop correspondence, the story of Benjamin Gostlin, the honest sea-captain of the seventeenth century, is very characteristic of the times he lived in. Baptized at Groton on the 9th of May, 1615, the son of Thomas Gostlin and Jane Winthrop, his wife, he became a sailor whilst yet in his teens. Under date of March 1, 1635 (old style), Emmanuel Downing writes to John Winthrop, Jun., afterwards Governor of Connecticut, "Ben Gostlyn is like to prove a proper seaman. He is returned out of the Streights and gone to sea againe. His master useth him like a sonne, and the youth would not change his course of life for any other. So soon as he shalbe out of his tyme, he intends to see New England."

On the 6th of March, 1639 (1640), Benjamin Gostlin himself writes from London, to his uncle, John Winthrop, Governor of Massachusetts, "I shold be verry gladd of some good occation to come to Newe England that I might injoy y^r sweete society, but as yett I am in soe good imployment & in soe hopefull a waye that I shold be much blameable if I shold thrust my selfe out of it, . . . I have bin at home these 6 months, but am now bound for Rushia & from thence to Leghorne."

Two months later (May 8, 1640) he writes his uncle again, saying he has been delayed, but expects to sail in ten days. He sends as a present "a small rondlett of rise and 2 jarrs of oyle." The letter shows him to have been a religious man, with some interest in politics. "The Lord be mercyfull unto us," he exclaims, "& turne the Kinge's hart, or else to this land, in my foolish judgement, is nothing to be expected but confushion."

April 14, 1657, Colonel Stephen Winthrop, M.P., writes from London to his brother John in New England, "Cosin Ben Gostlin is come rich & safe from the East Indye, but is goeing thither againe." Stephen Winthrop died in the following year, and no later letter of his is preserved.

Sept. 12, 1658, John Winthrop, Governor of Connecticut, writes his son, Fitz-John Winthrop, then a Lieutenant in Monk's army:—"There is a kinsman of ours, Capt. Gostlin, a captaine of a ship was last yeare at y^e East Indies. If he be come home, enquire of his welfare, and of his father and mother and brothers and sisters. His father lived at Groton in Suffolke, where your grandfather Winthrop and we lived. His mother was your grandfather Winthrop's owne sister. I should be glad to heare of them all. If you are in Scotland, your Aunt Downing, I believe, knoweth them all. His name is Capt. Benjamin Gostlin. He liveth, I suppose, about Ratcliffe, or thereabouts. Every merchant or sea capt: upon the Exchange knoweth him and can tell where he is."

June 29, 1604, Benjamin Gostlin writes Captain Fitz-John Winthrop (both being then in London) "My body is so bruised with a blow y^t I reced from a horse y^t I am incapeable of mountinge the guard this daye; therefore request you to doe it for me, and I shall send you a horse, with all things requisit, by this boy, to be redy in the millitary grounde by 2 of the clk. If you can borrow a buff cote, it will be better than if I send mine, because mine will be too shorte." Fitz-John Winthrop's regiment had recently been disbanded, which accounts for his being without a horse and uniform.

Nov. 25, 1661, the widow of Emmanuel Downing writes from East Hatley in Cambridgeshire to her nephew, John Winthrop, then in London as Agent for Connecticut, "I am sorry to hear of my nephew and neece Gostlin's sickness. Quarterns are not civile agues: they will out tarry their wellcome. I pray, if oportunity present, my servis to my deare sister and them all: I doubt not of her much joy to see you; and to Collonell Winthrops wyfe when you see her." The persons here referred to are Benjamin Gostlin, his wife, and his mother, Jane Gostlin (born Winthrop), the writer's sister.

Feb. 15, 1663 (1664), Mrs. Emmanuel Downing writes from East Hatley to John Winthrop, Governor of Connecticut:—"My son Peters wrote mee word latley that not long since hee had seen Captaine Gozlin, & y^t my nephew had lately made a purchase of an hundred pounds p^r An. near Groton; y^t hee & his wife & children were purposed to go and live in that, & that my sister and one of her daughters should continue in his house where he now lives at Stratford." It would appear from this that Thomas Gostlin, the Captain's father, had been some time dead, and that Jane Gostlin, his mother, was not living at Groton, but in her son's house, probably at Stratford Langthorne in Essex. For we learn from a Fine, made in Easter term, 1657, that the latter had bought, some six years before, three messuages, eight cottages, a barn, two gardens and nineteen acres of land in the adjoining township of West Ham, of which Stratford Langthorne is a well-known hamlet. The Fine of the purchase of the property in Groton, the place of his birth and early associations, will be given hereafter.

Feb. 8, 1667 (1668). Captain Robert Morris, variously styled "mariner" and "merchant," writes John Winthrop in New England about some brood mares for a plantation in Maryland. He adds, "If you charge bills, I live where you knowe, in Radcliffe over against the stone taverns. Brother Gostlin was verry ill when I wont from home, and his good wife is dead, and I fear the children will not find him to have so great an estate as was thought for. All men that he hath to doe with cheate him." The "brother Gostlin" here referred to must have been Benjamin, who may have married a sister of the writer.

Oct. 6, 1679, was proved the will (P.C.C. 129 King), dated Oct. 31, 1672, of "Benjamin Gostlin of Leigh in the County of Essex, mariner." He devises to his son, Thomas Gostlin, all his lands, free or copyhold, in Groton and Kersey in the County of Suffolke. To his daughter Judith, wife of Zachary Gellum, his house in Moorefields in the County of Middlesex. Said Judith to be residuary legatee and sole executrix. There can hardly be a doubt that this was the "cousin Ben Gostlin" of the Winthrop papers.

Downing of Ipswich.

Armorial Bearings.

In his collections towards a pedigree of the Downings of East Hatley, Le Neve ("Baronets," vol. III., p. 128, College of Arms) states that "Godfrey Downing of the County of the City of Norwich" bore "Barry of 10 arg. and vert.; over all a griffon segreant volant or."

Armorial seals of Emmanuel Downing, his wife, Lucy, and their son, Sir George Downing, (of which fac-similes have been published by the Massachusetts Historical Society), establish the fact that they used the arms attributed to this Godfrey Downing by Le Neve.

The arms of Downing of Norfolk, as given in the Visitations of that county, "Harl. MS." No. 1552, fo. 219^b, were, Barry of eight, argent and vert., a gryphon segreant or.: and the Crest, An arm, embowed, habited in mail proper, tied round the wrist with a riband or, and holding in the hand an arrow argent, barbed and flighted gold. These arms were used by the two Calibut Downings, father and son, in 1613.

The precise relationship between the Norfolk and Suffolk Downings, however, has not yet been ascertained, and has been the subject of much misconception and misstatement. The sixth volume of the Fourth Series of the "Massachusetts Historical Society's Collections" contains fifty-six letters of Emmanuel Downing and four of Sir George Downing. The first volume of the Fifth Series of the said "Collections" contains an additional letter of Emmanuel Downing, forty-two letters of his second wife (Lucy Winthrop), one of his daughter Mary, two of his daughter Martha, one of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joshua Downing, and three of her husband, one letter of the Rev. Joseph Downing, brother of Emmanuel, and three of Charles Downing, grandson of Emmanuel.

Letters to or from Emmanuel Downing and his brother Joshua are also to be found in the first volume of the "Life and Letters of John Winthrop;" while in the second of the volumes of "Historical Collections" already cited, and partly in the ninth volume of the Third Series, are nineteen letters of Francis Kirby (husband of Susanna Downing), which abound in references to his wife's family.

The pedigree of Downing of Ipswich and of Gamlingay, co. Cambridge, which will be found a page or two further on, is based upon probate and parish records, and upon the very numerous Downing letters just referred to, collated with Le Neve's Downing pedigree in the College of Arms.

Munning of Nedging.

Armorial Bearings.

Munnings (or Monyns), B. a shield (or inescoccheon) Arg. within an orle of () crescents Or, quartered with Or, on a pile in point between an crescent and a decrescent () () G., a crescent () of the first.

This family is very antient. They were of Monkes Ely and of Nedging, but have long since almost worne out. One of that family (but of no very great ranke) lived in Bury St. Edmonds in the time of K. Charles; and William Munnings, clarke, is now rector of Preston, sonne of Humfrey Munnings, clarke, minister of Brettenham, who was one of the most grave, learned and pious ministers of this County. The most eminent place in Preston church is given to the coat of this family; yet I knowe none of any very great estate of that name in Suff: this yeare 1659.

So writes Candler in his list ("Tanner MS." Lib. Bodleian, 226) of "The names and armes of sundry of the gentlemen of chiefest account in the County of Suff: as their coates were set vp by Robert Reice Esq; (a most accomplit gentleman) in the church windowes of Preston in Suff., about the latter end of the reigne of K. James or the beginning of the reigne of K. Charles." Rice, who spelt his name in various ways,—Reice, Ryce and Ryece—was a man of comfortable fortune, who, having no children, took to studying the family antiquities of his neighbourhood. "The will of man," he writes, "hath found out the means to perpetuate the Reverend memory of his honorable friends departed, by erecting unto them the lively counterfeiting resemblances, effigies, pyramids, epitaphs and monuments, as doth plentifully appear in our churches." Extending this idea, he began to decorate the church of his own parish in heraldic fashion. He "set up the Royall armes of England in a faire table," and then proceeded to depict the escutocheons of the gentry around him on its walls and windows. These he has described with much quaintness in his "Breviary of Suffolk," a charming account of the county which still exists amongst the Jermyn MSS. "Mouning," for so he writes the word, bore "Qrtly, 1 & 4, An inset escocheon or, betwⁿ 8 Turkish Moons crescents O; 2 & 3, O, a crescent O on a pile in point, betw. an crescent and a decrescent G."

Amongst the many shields on his tombstone in the chancel is Rice, quartering Strangman. and impaling "Mouning, an escocheon betw. 9 crescents, 4, 2, 2, 1."

Many of these shields were still in existence when Davy visited Preston in the earlier part of the present century. Indeed Rice took some care that they should not fade too rapidly, for in his will dated 11 Feb. 1638 [P.C.C. 36 Harvey] he bequeathed to "William Mills of Lanham, painter and glazier, forty shillings, with all my boxes of Painting Colours, that he do from time to time renew and amend, as need shall require, the decays of colours, words, letters, compartments and forms of those tables, writings and inscriptions, which he hath at any time made for me, as they are fixed in the Parish church or chancell of Preston aforesaid." It is clear Rice thought much of his Munning descent. He makes especial mention of his Munning kiusmen in his will:—"To my cousin M^r William Munninge, late resident at Sir Henry Mildmayes in the County of Essex" (who also calls him "cousin" in his turn¹). "More, I give unto him my copyhold meadow in Monkes Illigh, commonly called Skipp's meadow, and now in the occupation of Katherine Munninge, widow; he to sell it and divide the proceeds between three of his sisters, Ann, Katherine and Ellen Munning, so as one half shall go to Anne Munninge, aged, lame and impotent, and the other half to Katherine and Ellen. To Thomas Munning, sometime my servant. To my cousins Rice Munning and his sister the wife of Francis Lucas." For many interesting letters from Robert Rice to Gov. John Winthrop, see Vol. i. of the latter's "Life and Letters," and Vol. vi. of the Fourth Series of the "Massachusetts Historical Society's Collections."

“But what noble Buildings these were before the Dissolution of the Priory, may be guessed at by the Gate-house & other Ruins remaining to this day. Out of which arose the Mansion House now called the Abbey. 'Tis an old decayed irregular structure . . . having but one wing on the Front, and a Portall adorned with some Pilasters of the Dorick Order, two below and as many above, all of Freestone, as is also the Entablement. Over the Door are the Arms of Forthe; Gules two bends vairè, on a canton ore a demi-greyhound currunt sable; impaled with Glemham; Ore, a chevron gules between three Torteaux; and on each side thereof their Crests.

“The Gate hath for Ornament two Pilasters & their Pedestals of Freestone, together with the following Arms. First, a little above the Pilasters on the Outside, Forth, & three Lyoncells rampant; [Powell]. Under the Pediment a Lyon rampant [Morley]; and a little above the Pilasters on the Inside; 1. Three flowers de lis [Gwaringdu]; 2. On a cross five mullets [Broken-spear]; and under the Pediment, A chevron between three Moor's Heads, coupèd at the shoulders, and as many snakes wrapped about their necks [Vaughan].

“The Wainscot in the Dyning Room hath been very Magnificent & ornamentall, painted of a Copper Colour & adorned with fluted Columns & Pilasters of the Dorick Order; the whole very copiously embellished with Gilding; the gold being reported not to have cost less than fifty pounds. The Ceiling is adorned with Pannels of Crochett work, and the windows with Coats of Arms of Stained glass. The East window contains these: 1. Umphreys:—Gules a lyon rampant ore, armed and langued azure, a Ducal coronet in Chief of the second; impaled with Frere, Ore two leopards faces in pale gules, between two flaunches of the Second. 2. Musket:—Argent, six leopards faces gules, three two and one, between two bars of the second; impaled with Cock:—Ore a fess between two lyons passant, gules, armed and langued azure. And in the North window are there:— 1. Musket, empaled with Cannon:—Gules a Bend argent between two Cottises ore charged with a Torteaux: 2. Umphreys impaled with Dandy:—Quarterly Azure and ore, on the first a mullet of the second: 3. Umphreys impale! with Musket: 4. Musket impaled with Abel:—Argent a saltire engrailed azure. And under the Pediment of the Door Case in the same Room are two Coats quarterly. 1 & 4. Forth; 2 & 3. Party per chevron, sable & argent, two covered Cups in chief of the second, and three Spiders in base of the first: impaled with Gules a Lyon passant ore, armed and langued azure: with a Crest of Forth: a Bears Head erased sable, muzzled Ore.”

The Humphries were connections and probably ancestors of John Clyatt who married Elizabeth Devereux the ultimate heiress of the Forthes.

Chancery Proceedings, Forth c. Bode. 1634.

James fforth of New Windsor in the countie of Berkshire, gentleman, complaynant. One John fforth late Citizen and Clothworker of London your Orators vncler, your Orator being his next heire, about twelve yeares last past was seized of the moytie of a ffarme howse and fforty five acres of land called Birds in Boreham in the countie of Essex and of two messuages in Chelmsford and of a messuage and fifty acres of land called Wheelors in Dunnyland in the said Countie of Essex. By the persuation of John Bode of Dabbington Priory in the countie of Kent, then gentleman now Esquier, the said John fforth, without any peny or other consideration giuen, by deed indented sold said premisses to the said John Bode and his heires for ever upon trust that the said Bode permit Susan Goulding, now deceased, grandmother to your Orator, whose heire also yo^r Orator is, to enjoy said premisses during her life; but if the said John fforth should tender sixpence to the said John Bode in the presence of witnesses at the Royal Exchange in London this conveyance should be void. John fforth had nothing in the world, as this assurance had stripped him of all his meanes. Having tendered the sixpence some yeares after, but not according to the precise words, he dyed. Bode now claymeth tytle to said lands.

Answer of John Bode. John fforth had no issue. He sold said land out of respect to Susan Goulding his naturall mother. She had given him great somes of money and he desired to recompence her, but his merchandice beyond the seas had twice miscarried, both times by pirates. Having little or nothing but what his said mother allowed him, hee the said John fforth did sell said lands vnto this defendant, but Defendant never knew or heard of the Indenture until after John fforth's death, when Susan Gouldinge, being this Defendants aunte, did sojourne with Defendant in the summer time and did acquaint Defendant with the Indenture. Said Indenture was taken in Defendant's name in trust for the said Susan. Defendant hath beene at great charge and trouble uppon severall occasions on her behalfe. She was then wife of Thomas Gouldinge the elder of Poslingford in Suffolk Esquier, and the Bargaine was not taken in her owne name, Gouldinge being so ill an husband that he and the said Susan then liued asunder. Because Defendant was sickly and might die the said Susan desired that said lands might be conveyed to other trustees. So another Indenture was made 3^d Nov^r 1623 betwene this Defendant on the first parte, said Susan Gouldinge and one Richard Vernon the elder, citizen and mercer of London on the seconde parte, and Sir Edward Boys the yonger of Norrington co. Kent Knight, John Wynthrope of Groton Esquier, George Brooke of East Dunnylande co. Kent Esquier, and Thomas Aylett of Revenhall co. Essex gentleman on the third parte. In this Indenture Susan granted Wheelers to the said Sir Edward Boys, John Wynthrope, &c. for the terme of one thousand years, they payeing vnto this Defendant yearly one pepper corne and suffering the said Susan peaceably to hould Wheelers, and immediately from the death of this Defendant the said Susan to permit the said Richard Vernon and frances his wife (daughter of the said Susan Gouldinge and of Edward fforthe Esquier former husband of said Susan) to have Wheelers with reversion to Edward Vernon, Richard Vernon the younger and John Vernon, sonnes of the said Richard and frances his wife, and they having no issue, with remainder to Henry Smith, Susan Smith and Katherine Smith, children of Robert Smith citizen and grocer of London and Thomasine his wife, another daughter of the said Susan Goulding. The said Susan further assured the moytie of the messuage and forty five acres called Birds to this Defendant, he to paye one hundred pounds to Sybell fforthe her grandchilde yf Charles fforthe her brother be dead without issue. After the making of said Indenture Sybbil fforthe did marry Cornelius Holland of the city of Westminster Esquier, and before 1631 when the said Susan Gouldinge made her last will, Thomas Gouldinge her husband beinge then dead. Susan Goulding died on the 30th of Marche in the tenth yeare of the raigne of his Ma^{tie} that nowe is. Defendant takes it to be true that Complaynant is next heire vnto the said John fforthe and Susan Gouldinge. Defendant hath in his hands and custodie the said parte of said tripartite Indenture and said Deed poll made by this Defendant and a coppie of the will of Thomas Bode and a coppie of the Indenture of Bargain and Sale and a cobby of the will of Edward fforthe gentleman grandfather of Complaynant and husband of said Susan; and Defendant takes it that said Edward fforthe hath devised said lands vnto said Susan for her life and after her deceass to said John fforthe and his heires for ever. He denieth that said John fforthe did at any time tender the some of sixe pence for the avoydinge of said Indenture.

Chancery Proceedings, Bode v. Forth, 1635.

John Bode of Davington Priory in the county of Kent gentleman, complaynant. George Crimble of Stambridge in the county of Essex, gentleman, your Orators late grandfather, was seased of divers messuages lands and tenements in Stambridge and elsewhere in Essex of the clear value of three hundred pounds yearly. He made his will on the second daye of Aprill 1570, devising these lands to George Crimble his sonne and for want of issue of said sonne to Grace Susan and Mary Crimble his daughters for their lives, and then to Richard Crimble said grandfathers brother and the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten; for lack of such he left them to William Crimble his cozen and the heirs males of his body; failing these to the heirs of the Crimbles being males for ever; and in default of heirs males to the right heires of the said George Crimble the testator. Grace Crimble was his daughter by his first wife, whoe brought a great porcōn vnto the said George Crimble the grandfather, and George, Susan and Mary Crimble were children by his second wife. The said Mary died shortlie after without issue, and Grace married William Bode of Rotchford gentleman and by him had your Orator. Shortlie after said grandfathers death the said George Crimble his sonne entered into his lands and long since died without issue. By virtue of said grandfathers will his lands came unto the said Susan as the sole survivor of his daughters, as Mary and Grace died in the lifetime of George the sonne. So Suzan entered into the said lands. She lived until March 1634; before whose death the said Richard Crymble and William Crymble died without issue: and all the heires males of the Crymbles were dead without issue before the death of said Susan. By reason whereof one moyitie did come vnto your Orator as son and heir of said Grace Crimble, and the other moyitie to the right heirs of said Susan—Grace and Susan being the only surviving children of said George Crimble the testator, and your Orator heire generall of said George Crimble. But soe it is that one James fforth of Windsor in the Countie of Berkshire first p'tending himself to be grandchild and heire of said Susan and having gotten into his hands the original will & writings deeds & evidences—on death of said Susan did enter in vpon the lands, &c., and take rents as sole heire of George Crymble the testator. Now Grace yo^r Orators mother was sole heire of Crymble by his 1st wife, who brought a great porcōn in marriage, and said Susan was dau^g of Crymble by his second wife. Your Orator ought to have at least as great a share as the said James fforth. fforthe also pretends William Crimble did suffer a Recovery: he hath cutt timber, &c., &c.

Answer of James fforth Esquire 1635. George Crimble the testator was seised of messuages &c. in Much Stambridge, Prittlewell, Inworth, Rocheford, Rawrith, Wickford, and Chelmysford. Complainant deriveth only by heires ffemale, knowing well that there be left heires males of the Crymbles, this alone overthrowing his p'tended title. After making his will, said George Crymble the elder, George his sonne, Richard Crymble & the said Grace and Mary Crymble all dyed. Only Susan (defendant's mother) and William Crymble were left, Susan being survivor of the daughters to whom the lands were left for life, and William Crymble the next in tayle. Thomasine, the last wife of said George Crymble the testator having for her dower the lands called ffynches in Much Stambridge, and Susan aforesaid holding the residue for life only, the remainder being William Crymble. William Crymble having the freehold vested in him by John fforth who had married the said Thomasyn, and by Edward fforth who had married the said Susan, in Easter Term 26 Elizabeth the said Edward fforth did Recover the premisses against him the said William Crymble by Coñon Recovery, by the name of ten messuages, eight gardens, eighty acres of land, ten acres of meadow, sixty acres of pasture, four acres of wood and twenty acres of ffresh marsh—as appeareth in the Records of said Court. By Indenture tripartite 6 May 26 Elizth said W^m Crymble of the 1st part, Edward fforth & Susan his wife of the 2^d and John fforth & Thomasine his wife of the 3^d part, the uses of the Recovery are all declared, ffynches to be to Thomasine for life with reversion to Edward fforth and Susan his wife and the longer liver of the two, and afterwards to the use of ——— [document gone in this place]. Edward fforth so seised made his will; he left premisses in Chelmesford to John fforth his youngest son & premisses unbequeathed to Edward fforth his son & heir, who was father to this defendant, and dyed leaving this defendant lands as his son and heir. Susan (Defendants grandmother) also dyed about two years last past and before her death made a will. Defendant, who is but lately come to the age of twenty one, knoweth not the contents but will informe himself thereof.

Chancery Proceedings, Bode c. Forth, 1635.

Humbly complayninge, 15th April 1635, John Bode of Davington Priory in the Countie of Kent, gentleman. John ffoorth, late Cittizen and Cloathworker of London, was about twelve yeares now last paste seised of the revercion uppon the death of Susan Gouldinge his mother (and your Orators late aunte) of the moyity of a ffarme howse called Byrds and forty five acres of land thereto belonginge in Boreham in the countie of Essex. And the said John ffoorth, having noe issue of his bodie, out of the loue w^{ch} hee bare vnto his said mother and to satisfie her for diuerse great somes of money lent him, by deed inrolled did sell with other lands and tenements the said moyity of lands vnto yo^r Orator and his heires; yo^r Orator to suffer the said Susan, being naturall mother of the said John ffoorth, peaceably to take the rents duringe her life. John ffoorth died; and shortly after, havinge a desire to gratifye yo^r Orator for divers curtesies, the said Susan Gouldinge by Indenture tripartite, dated the the third daie of November 1623, between the said Susan and your Orator, on the first parte, and one Richard Vernon the elder Cittizen and Mercer of London on the second parte, and Sir Edward Boys the yonger of Nonington in the countie of Kent Knight, John Wyntropp of Grotton in the countie of Suffolke Esquier, George Brooke of East Dunnyland in the countie of Essex Esquier and Thomas Aylett of Revenhall in the countie of Essex gentleman on the third parte, hath appointed that your Orator should convey the said moyity unto the said Sir Edward Boys, &c., to the only behoof of the said Susan, and after her decease to the said Sir Edward Boys, &c., their heires and assignes for ever, they to suffer your Orator and his heirs to enioye said lands. Vppon condition that yo^r Orator or his heires should pay at the Royall Exchange in London vnto Sybill fforth, grandchilde of the said Susan, the some of one hundred pounds within twoe yeares next after the death of the said Susan. Aboute the fifteenth daie of July 1631 the said Susan Gouldinge did make her laste will and did giue vnto the said Sybill, by the name of Sybill Holland wife of Cornelius Holland of the city of Westminster Esquier, the some of one hundred pounds out of the moneys which your Orator was to paye vnto the executors of the said Susan. On the thirtieth of March in the tenth yeare of King James Susan Gouldinge died. But now see it is that James ffoorth, whoe is or pretends to bee next heire vnto the said Susan and allsoe vnto the said John ffoorth, althought he hath heard the said Susan Goulding his grandmother affirme that John ffoorth her sonne did conveye those lands to yo^r Orator, and knoweth, being her executor, that she hath confirmed them by said tripartite Indenture, and hath by her will given lands called Wheelers to her own daughter and grandchildren, and that he, James ffoorth, hath himself in a letter dated the third daie of December 1634, acknowledged the said moyity of Byrds to be your Orators, and that Thomas Gouldinge the said Susan's husband and the said Susan herself acknowledged it by a Fine: Knowing also that your Orator went to councell for the said Susan at his own costs on account of Thomas Gouldinge her husband his ill vsage of her, intending to pfer a Bill against said Thomas Gouldinge into this Hono^{ble} Courte of Chancery for her good maintenance: Yet the said James ffoorth out of his covetuous and contentious minde, to get away Wheelers from his grandmothers grandchildren and the moyitie of Byrds from your Orator, hath preferred a Bill against your Orator into this hon^{ble} Courte full of false things, and saith the said Indenture is obliterated. Your Orator is very weake and sickly, giuen over these twoo yeares by Doctors of Physicke and stirreth not abroad. He prayeth therefore that Your good Lordshipp would grant His Ma^{ties} most gracious writt of subpoena, &c., &c., &c.

The aunsweare of James fforth gent. 4th May 1635. He much wondreth to see Complaynant, a neere kinsemen of this defendant, exhibit soe vnnecessary a Bill against this defendant taxing him that hee hath sued and vexed said Compl^t vpon an advantage of the sickness and paine and old age of said Complaynant. Sick and painefull and old and bedred as hee the said Comp^t is or maketh himselfe to bee, hee the said Compl^t not many months since had vigor and health and heate inough to put this defend^t to A Trump and a hazard for all or the most part of his inheritance: — was able to write lettars vpon lettars and neuer would bee att peace with this defendant being very young and rawe in all worldly affayres and lately come to his full age of one and twentie yeares. The said Susan Goulding in the tyme of her last sicknes much bewayled and repented the wrongs w^{ch} she had offered to this defendant in his Birth right. Complaynant need not bee so peremptory in the supporting of a poore and weake title against a right heire who hath beene most iniuriously dealt wthall. His deceased grandmother kept in her owne hands dureing all her life both the said pretended originall deed of Bargaine and Sale and alsoe the tripartite Indenture. Defendant hopeth that these things may be solemnly examined and deliberately heard and that this defendants' iust right may not be slighted.

Chancery Proceedings, Forth c. Webb, 1640.

James Forth of Eaton in the county of Buck. Gent, being seised of one ffarme called Belsyes and of lands in Barfold & Houlton in y^e county of Suff. about 4 yeares since did direct one Edw: Clarke to lett y^e same. Wherevpon Clarke did treat with Agnes Webb, the widowe of Rich: Webb whoe did formerly occupy said ffarme vnder yo^r Or: ancestors, and likewise with one John Webb brother vnto y^e said Richard. Yt was agreed that s^d Agnes and John should enioye y^e ffarme from yeare to yeare only and should pay yearely y^e so^me of 49^{li}. But now soe yt ys that s^d Agnes Webb and John Webb takeing notice y^t yo^r Or: hath noe thing in writeing vnder theire hands, and yo^r Or: having mislayd his writeings w^{ch} conc^lne y^e s^d pmisses, give out in speeches y^t they nor either of them doe make any such agream^t, but that they are seised of y^e inh^litance of y^e pmisses, and doe refuse to pay y^e 49^{li} p annū and alsoe doth vtterly spoyle & destroy y^e s^d house by plucking vpp y^e plancks thereof, and some of them have felled and carryed away greate pte of y^e tymber.

Answeres of Agnes Webb widdowe, John Webb & Charles Sterne Def^{ts}. They thinke it to be true that Comp^t is lawfully seised of the ferme called Bellsies & of lands & tenem^{ts} in Eastberholt and Houlton, and did employ Edward Clarke of Eastberholt to let said lands, whoe had bin formly employed in that kinde by the grandmother of Comp^t. Richard Webb did formly occupy said ferme vnd some of Comp^t's ancestors. But Agnes & John Webb doe deny that there was more rent than the yearly some of forty pounds. They have bin much dampnified by the molestacōn of one Thomas Browne whoe pretended to haue a lease of the pmisses. Edward Clarke hath lyved for many yeares in Eastberholt & is a man of great estate & credit in the county and Comp^t may vse his testimony well enough if he thinke soe fitt. Def^{ts} vtterly deny that they did pretend to clayme the pmisses other than as fermors, or that they have spoyled the mansion house or comitted wasts. And Def^t Charles Sterne doth deny the felling & carrying away of wood or timber growing vpon said grownds saving for necessary fyreing, fencing stuffe, ploughboot^e, cartboot^e, gateboot^e & styleboot^e, which the lawe doth vsually allowe to all fermors.

Powell of Whitchurch.

Who was Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Powell of Wales, and wife of William Forth of Hadleigh? A prolonged and most careful search amongst the wills at Somerset House and other Probate Courts; the Fines, Inquisitions, Close Rolls, Patent Rolls, &c., &c., at the Record Office; and the Pedigrees and Genealogical Collections at the Heralds' College and elsewhere, has failed to elicit a single fact in answer to this question. As Elizabeth Powell she witnessed the will of her future husband's father in 1540. As Elizabeth Forth she became the mother of an heir in 1541. We should have been altogether without clue to her identity had not three of her sons, or their immediate descendants, assumed the very remarkable quarterings of Powell of Whitchurch in Glamorganshire. The eldest, Robert Forth, caused them to be worked into the great gateway of Butley Abbey, where Davy, the Suffolk Antiquary, saw and noted them in 1810. They embellish the brass of William Forth, the third son, who died at Hadleigh in 1599. And John Forth, the youngest son, seems to have assisted, in 1611, a year or two before his death, in the preparation of the "Emblazoned Pedigree" of Forth and Winthrop, in which the quarterings of Powell, Brokenspeare, Gwaringde, Morley and Vaughan are marshalled in all their splendour. These quarterings were allowed to Philip Forth, her grandson, at the Suffolk Visitation of 1612. This being the case, we give pedigrees of the one and only family of Powell to whom such quarterings could possibly have belonged: and, as Welsh evidences are scarce, excerpts of two documents which help to establish the date of the Appowell who married the heiress of Vaughan of Methyr—the conjectural grandfather of Elizabeth Forth.

The Discent of Thomas Powell.

From "Heraldic Collections by W. Penson, Lancaster Herald," 1613—1637. Harl. MS. 1052, fo. 23^v, 24.

ARMS:—Quarterly,—1. Powell; Per pale three lions rampant. 2. Brokenspear; A cross charged with five mullets.
3. Gwaringdu; Per pale three fleur de lys. 4. Morley; a lion rampant Sable, crowned Or.

CREST:—A blackamore proper, crined Or.

The Bourne Pedigree in the Visitations of Somersetshire, 1565—1623, Harl. MS. 1445, describes Sir John as one of the principal Secretaries of State to Queen Mary. In his will, P.C.C. 29 Pyckeryng, dated 18 May 1563, he leaves two parts of his Manor of Batenhall, co. Worcester, to Dorothy his wife, and the residue to Anthony his son and heir. He also makes provision for the tuition and government of his children during their minority. This will was proved 1 July 1575, by Dame Dorothy his relict, and later on Administration was granted to Anthony Bourne the son, 21 July 1576, his mother having died. From the letters of this Anthony, Add. MS. 23, 212, circa 1577, we learn that he and Thomas Powell had been friends together at Oxford, he having on one occasion rescued the latter from the police, and on another entrusted him with money for the payment of his debts.

The earlier ancestry of Powell of Whitechurch is given us, with more or less exactness, in the pedigree drawn up by the order of King Edward the Fourth, when he created William Herbert Earl of Pembroke in 1460. (See Coxe's "Tour in Monmouthshire," pp. 141, 421, and the articles on the Herberts in Burke's "Extinct Peerages.") For further information respecting the Whitechurch family the reader is referred to the "Genealogies of Morgan and Glamorgan," by George Thomas Clark, pp. 264, 265, and to the Wakeman MS., an admirable compilation, now or lately in the custody of the Society of Antiquaries.

Clopton of Melford.

Armorial Bearings.

The Arms of Clopton, Sable a bend argent between two cotices dancettée Or, appear upon the seals attached to their deeds and charters from the middle of the fourteenth century downwards. Heading the Clopton pedigrees in Harl. MS. 1103, a contemporary copy of the original Visitation of Suffolk by William Harvey, Clarencieux King of Arms in 1561, are the following shields:—

Clopton of Kentwell Hall in Long Melford.—Quarterly of six. 1. Clopton; as above. 2, Mylde: Argent, a lion rampant Sable, over all a fess counter-compony or and azure. 3, Francis: Gules, a saltire between four crosses patée or. 4, Roydon; Chequy argent and gules a cross azure. 5, Knevitt: Argent, a bend within a bordure engrailed sable. 6, Argent, three lions rampant gules. This quartering which is assigned to Kyrkham in Harl. MS. 1560, and to Belhouse by Dr. Howard, is common to both families. The Crest is a wolf's head, per pale or and azure, and the Motto, "Dor en avant."

Clopton of Liston.—Quarterly of four. 1, Clopton. 2, Mylde. 3, Francis. 4, Saye; Per pale, azure and gules, three chevrons argent voided and counter-changed of the field, over all a crescent on a mullet for difference.

Clopton of Sudbury.—Quarterly of six, as in Clopton of Kentwell, impaling Peacock, Gules, on a fess argent, between three plates, each charged with a peacock's head erased azure, as many mascles sable; over all a mullet for difference.

Harl. MS. 1820, has Clopton of Kentwell, Quarterly of six, as before, impaling Barnardiston; Azure, a fess dancettée ermine, between six cross crosslets argent.

Harl. MS. 1560, fo. 5, has Quarterly of eleven. 1, Clopton. 2, Mylde. 3, Francis. 4, Knevett. 5, Kirkham. 6, Bozun of Lincolnshire; Argent, three bird-bolts gules. 7, Uffletee; Argent, on a fess azure three fleurs de lis or. 8, Deane; Sable, two bars argent within a bordure gules. 9, Paynell; Gules, two chevrons, within a bordure argent. 10, Argent, semée of fleurs de lis, a lion rampant sable. 11, Sable, three cinquefoils, all within a bordure argent. The whole being, apparently, the achievement of Mary Clopton, afterwards the wife of Sir William Cordell.

The Shield of Clopton, quarterly of twenty, from Sir William Clopton's monument in Melford Church, is pictured and described in Dr. Howard's edition of Harvey's Visitation of Suffolk.

The wolf's head, as Clopton's Crest, appears on the seal attached to a charter of Sir William Clopton of the third year of Henry the fourth, 1402. It is occasionally represented, as on the Clopton monument at Lyston, issuing from a ducal coronet.

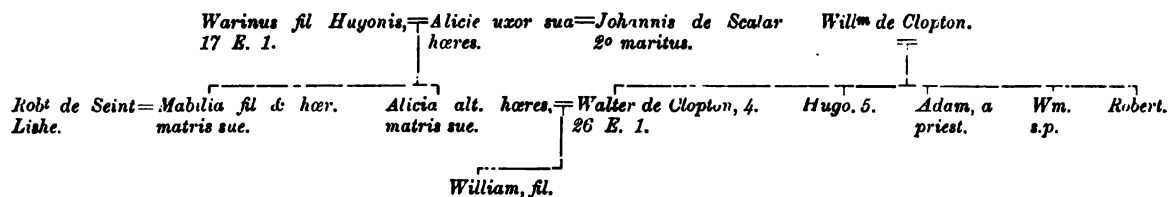

A great number of Clopton wills, deeds, pedigrees, &c., have been printed in Dr. Howard's edition of "Harvey's Visitation of Suffolk," vol. i, pp. 20—136. Some additional evidences from the De Banco Rolls and other sources are given below.

Sir Simon D'Ewes, who married the heiress of the Cloptons of Kentwell, made elaborate collections relating to their history, which will be found amongst the Harleian Charters and MSS. in the British Museum. He deals much with the same family in his "Autobiography," a Bowdlerised edition of which was printed in two volumes in 1845.

Coñmiss. London, Essex and Herts., 1612.

Obviously the will of William Clopton of Liston, who died on the 25th of October, 1612, leaving William Clopton, his son and heir, Francis Clopton, his second son, and a daughter, Mary, married to George Whetcroft of Eye in Suffolk.

Will of William Clopton, 1640.

This is the last will and testament of mee William Clopton thelder of Groton in the county of Suff gent made and published this first day of November 1640. I commend my soule into the hands of Almighty God stedfastly believeinge throughe the onelie meritts and passion of my blessed saviour Christ Jesus to obtain pardon of all my sinns. I giue vnto my loving wife my customary lands in Groton holden of William Hobart Esquire as of his manor of Lynsey, of John Sampson Esquire as of his manor of Lillesey cum Sampsons Hall in Carsey, and of Isaack Appleton Esquire vnto the full tearme of eightene yeares. And after the expiracoñ of the said tearme I will that all said customary lands shall come to my sonne William and his heires for ever. By Indenture of demise bearinge date the seaven and twentieth of October last, I the said W^m Clopton and the said William Clopton my sonn, have letten vnto John Sampson the younger gent and Robert Sampson gent all those my mannors of Chastlynes Chipley and Sandefords and all other my freehold lands in the county of Suff. vnto the full tearme of eightene yeares, which lease was made in trust for the raiseing of porcoñs for my younger sonnes and daughters. My meaneinge is that said lessees shall assigne vnto my said wife as well the said Indenture of demise as alsoe the said premisses, and that my wife (the yearelie rent of fower score pownds beinge deducted) shall raise porcoñs for my younger children, that is to say for every one of them (except my youngest sonne) twoe hundred pownds a piece as they bee in seniority one before another. And whereas I am seized of one coppiehold tenement lyeinge in Lynsey holden of the said William Hobart, of which manor the custome is that coppiehold estates doe discend to the youngest sonne, my will is that my executrix shall pay vnto my said youngest sonne the somme of eightscore pownds onely and noe more. I doe heartily desire my said executrix that my sonn Walter bee contynued at the vniversity of Cambridge vntill one yeare after hee shall heve taken the degree of a Master of Arts. And I doe nominate my loving wife Alice Clopton to bee the sole executour. Probatum vicesimo Septimo die Novembris 1640 Juramento Alicie Clopton relicte.

It was Thomasine Clopton, the sister of the testator, who became the second wife of John Winthrop of Groton, afterwards Governor of Massachusetts, 6 Dec. 1615. Her marriage settlement is given at page 22. The pathetic story of her death, but one year later, as penned by her husband, will be found in Vol. I, pp. 79-89, of the "Life and Letters of John Winthrop."

Will of Poley Clopton, 1730.

I Poley Clopton of Bury S^t Edmonds, Doctor in Physick, resigning my soul into the hands of the ffather of Mercys do publish this my last will. Impri^s I give and devise unto James Reynolds Esq^r Lord Cheif Baron of his Majesty's Court of Exchequer, Thomas D'Gray, Thomas Barnardiston, Baptist Lee and John Moyle Esquires, John Turnor Esq^r the present Recorder of Bury, my brother in law M^r Edward Crispe, M^r William Turnor and M^r Henry Turnor his son, M^r Walter Raye, M^r Samuel Raye, M^r Edward Isaack Jackson and M^r Joshua Grigby all of Bury aforesaid and to their heires so much of my mannors &c. in Suffolk and Essex (other than my seat called Lyston Hall) as they shall think fit, not exceeding the yearly value of three hundred pounds, upon trust that they shall erect a convenient house in Bury for the reception and maintenance of twelve poor people, inhabitants of Bury, viz^t six men and six women of the age of sixty yeares and upwards, and shall after said house shall be built, imploy the rents in the maintenance of the said poore people. Also I will that when said trustees shall be reduced to five that those surviving shall convey the premises to eight other inhabitants of Bury under the trust hereinbefore expressed and so toties quoties for ever. This Inquisition, which so concisely records the descent of Sir William Tyndal from Lord Scales, is one of the four which detail the possessions of Anthony Woodville, Earl Rivers, in Norfolk, Suffolk, Hertfordshire and Cambridgeshire. By some mediæval mistake these Escheats were placed with those of the first year of Henry VII. Their entry in the Calendar, "Escaet. Hen. VII," stands thus:—"Antonij nup̄ Comit̄ Ryvers : 38 Norff. : Suff. 39 : 37 Hertf. : Cantebr. 36. These offiĉ are fyled in anno primo and were fownde in anno sc̄do."

Rainsborough.

The family of Rainsborough or Rainborough, often spelled Rainborow, so prominently associated with the naval service of the Stuart period and with the army of the Commonwealth, is believed to have originated in Suffolk, though proof is wanting. The distinguished naval commander William Rainsborough, whose successful expedition against Salee is a matter of history, was M.P. for the Suffolk sea-port of Aldborough in 1640, and his father, Thomas Rainborow of East Greenwich, is supposed to have been grandson to the Thomas Raynburghe of Ipswich, who made his will in 1544. There was active communication between these two ports in Tudor days, and the name, an unusual one, disappeared from the one place a little before it is found in the records of the other. For much valuable information relative to this family and the correction of various errors which had found their way into print, see the "New England Genealogical Register," Vol. xl, pp. 158—171.

Will of William Rainborough, 1638.

William Rainborow of London Esquire. I bequeth my bodie to the ground and my soule to my Saviour Jesus Christ To the hamblett of Wapping fyftie pounds for a stocke for their poore. To the hamblett of White Chappell tenn pounds to their poore. To the Trinity House ffyftie pounds with condicoñ that they giue to poore Seamen or their widdowes of the hamblett of Wapping every S^t Thomas day ffortie shillings. To my eldest sonne Thomas Rainborowe my houses in Southwark. To my sonne William Rainborowe my houses in Gun alley in Wapping purchased of my ffather in lawe Renold Hoxton and alsoe one thousand pound in money. To my sonne Edward Raineborowe twelve hundred pounds. To my daughter Martha Coytmore the wife of Thomas Coytemore now in new England the some of seaven hundred pounds, yf she be alive at the tyme of my death. To my daughter Judeth Rainborowe one thousand pounds. To my daughter Joane Raineborowe one thousand pounds. To the sonnes and daughter of my deceased sister Sara Port, namely Robert, John, Thomas and William Porte and Martha Porte, two hundred and ffyftie pounds. To my brother M^r Thomas Rainborowe ffyftie pounds. To my sister Buckridge ffiftie pounds. To my sister Wood ffyftie pounds. To my ffather in lawe Renold Hoxton and to my mother in lawe Joane Hoxton tenn pounds a peece to buy them each a ringe. I make my loveing sonnes Thomas and William Rainborowe executors and appoint them to bring vp my younger children to the age of twenty one years or daie of marriage. And for Ou^lseers

I desire my loveing brothers in lawe M^r Robert Wood and M^r John Hoxton. This sixteenth of July 1638. I give to my mother in lawe Jone Hoxton my house at Wapping now in the occupacon of M^r Sander Beuce dureing her firall life and bequeath to my grandchild W^m Rainborowe the some of one hundred pounds.

A Codicil. William Rainborowe did about a yeare since and att other tymes declare that Martha Port should not expect the ffyftie pounds legacie, because he had given her the ffyftie pounds and all her wedding clothes in marriage wth William Ashley. The first day of februarie 1641 wee the wittnesses have subscribed our names John Hoxton, Thom: Hoxton, Mary Bennfes. Probatum octauo die Aprilis 1642 juramentis Thome Rainborowe et Wittimi Rainborowe filiorę. P.C.C. 51 Campbell.

It is stated in the Essex Visitation of 1664 that Robert Wood of London, Merchant, married Martha, daughter of William Rainsborough. This statement involves genealogical difficulties, but we seem, in the "loveing brother in lawe M^r Robert Wood" abovementioned, to have the husband of the "Martha Rainsborough" of the heraldic MS.

The ioynt and seu^lall answere of Judith Winthrop widow, Henry Ward and Margaret his wife & Richard Hancocke and Judith his wife def^{ts}. Said Stephen Winthrop dyed the third May 1658 seised of said p^rmises. At his death he left three daughters (that is to say) the def^{ts} Margaret Ward, Judith Hancocke & Johanna theire sister since dead without issue, coheires of theire said father. Comp^{lt} being brother to the def^t Judith the mother, and having the management of her affaires, to serve himselfe did p^rtend to these def^{ts} that they had noe good title to said messuages, and advised Judeth the mother to sell the same. In a writing indented dated 29th Sept^r 1674 and mutually signed, for fife hundred pounds, def^{ts} did alien and confirme said messuages to comp^{lt}, with limitta^ons after expressed. Judith the daughter was not [then] above the age of seauenteene yeares. Comp^{lt} did paye about the eighth September 1676 the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds in parte of payment of said fife hundred pounds. He hath neglected to paye the yearly sume of fife and twenty pounds (being a great parte of this def^{ts} maintenance). Comp^{lt} was indebted by bond for money formerly borrowe^d, and vpon account to Judith the mother. The def^t [has] noe counterparte or coppie of the deed. The p^rmises were worth more than fife hundred pounds.

Additional Evidences.

The preceding portion of this work has been devoted to the Winthrops of Groton and the families allied to them. The five following evidences would have been included in proper order had they come to light in season, and they are now appended before passing to wholly different subjects.

For the will of the testator's brother, successively Rector of Whatfield, Vicar of Hadleigh and Bishop of Bath and Wells, and for their pedigree see pp. 74-76. Alice Still, their sister, became the first wife of the third Adam Winthrop in 1574, and died s.p. in 1579.

A fine pedigree of the Stills of Dorsetshire, descendants of the Bishop, with some account of the family, will be found in Hutchins' History of that County, Vol. III.

Chancery Proceedings, Hunne c. Burd, 1571.

In most humble maner complayninge sheweth vnto your good Lordeshippe your poore and daylie Orator John Hunne of the Cytie of London that one Richarde Celye, cosyngermyn to Maryon Burde alias Bryde of Ypeswiche wydowe, was indebted to Thomas Clerke of London lynnyn draper in the some of fyftie poundes in moneye. Richard Cely, beinge verie vnable to paye the same, requested said Maryon to wryte for him to some ffrende of hers to take order for the payment at some other and longer daies. Maryon dyd request your Orator (for there was great ffrendesheppe between your Orator and said Maryon) to deale with Thomas Clerke for Celye. By her letters said Maryon did promise to save harmeles your Orator whatsoever he shoulde doo promyse or vndertake for Celye. Your Orator [therefore], became bounden to Clerke for the payment of tenne poundes, parcell of the said ffyftie. Sythence which tyme your orator hathe byn compelled to paye the said tenne pounds with twelue shillings for damages. But soe it is that Maryon doth refuse to repay to your orator the said tenne poundes. Said pmyse was not made by Maryon Burd before wytnesses, but secretly by her letters—which letters orator has sythence loste, [being] imbeeled by one William Celye, brother to the said Maryon. Orator cannot compell Maryon to pforme her pmyse by the comen lawes of this realme. Maye yt therefore please your good lordesheppe to grant the Quenes Wrytte of Subpena to be directed to the said Maryon Burde, &c, &c.

The answers of Marryon Bryde als Byrde wydowe, defendnūt, 14 Elizth. Defendūt att the request of Richard Cely yn the lyffe of Richard Bryde hyr late husbaud dyd cawse a letter to be dyrectedd vnto compleynūt & requested him to be ffryndly vnto said Rychard Cely. And thoughte the supposell were true, as the same ys very vntrue, yett forasmuch as defend. att that tyme was a wyffe & under the coverture of Rychard Byrd hyr husband she demaundeth Judgement of this honourable Courte yf she shalbe ffurther compelled to make answeres to the surmyses & allygacons of Compleynūt.

Chanc. Proc., Series II, Bundle 97, No. 85.

It would now seem that Maryon Burde alias Bryde of Ipswich and Richard Byrde, her husband, were identical with the "Richarde Burde of Ipswich and my sister his wief," who are referred to in the will of the second Adam Winthrop (See page 13). Prolonged research has failed to discover any other Richard Burde of that place and period. It has been assumed that Richard Burde's wife was the own sister of Adam Winthrop, but the evidence of the wills of John Cely of Bury St. Edmunds, 1557, and of Alice Cely, his widow, 1558, discovered since the issue of the earlier pages of this volume, creates a presumption that she was really the step-sister of Alice Henny or Hunne, Adam Winthrop's first wife, who died young in 1538. Alice Cely, previously wife of — Hunne, died in 1558, leaving three Hunne children then surviving and a stepdaughter, Maryon Cely, wife of Richard Byrde alias Bryde of Ipswich, clearly the defendant in "Hunne contra Burd." She also left a son, William Cely, who is believed to be the William Cely who married Adam Winthrop's daughter, Mary. For the will of Richard Byrde and further particulars of the families of Hunne and Cely see hereafter, pp. 221-223 (Goodwin of Bull's Hall).

P.C.C. 88 Parker.

John Whittingham and Joshua Winthrop, his brother in law, had married two sisters, daughters of Vincent Norrington, Citizen and Grocer of London, whose nuncupative will, dated on or about the second of January 1597, was proved on the nineteenth of the same month by Joan Norrington, his relict. [P.C.C. 5 Lewin.] "Sicke in body and in danger of death he did giue all that euer he had unto Joane his loueing wife, sayinge that if he had five thousand pounds more he wold not giue anie from her." On the 12th of November 1617, a commission was issued to Sarah Whittingham, one of the sisters referred to, for the final administration of her father's estate. It was Mary, the other sister, who married Joshua Winthrop, sometime of London, and after of Bandon in Ireland, whose kindred and connections will be found in the pedigree of Winthrop of Groton, at page 27.

Will of Robert Mildmay, 1646.

The first day of May, 1646. Robert Mildmay of Tarling in the countie of Essex Esq^r. To be buried in my chancell of my pish church in Tarling. The some of ffive hundred pownds w^{ch} I did lend vnto my brother John Goodwyn of the Inward Temple London Esq^r twentie sixte day of May 1642 to be paid vnto my executo^r within one yeere nexte after my decease. For the payment whereof said John Goodwyn made me a lease of the Mannor Milles lying in Stystead; out of which said some to be paid vnto my nephew Robert Mildmay sonne of William Mildmay late of Woodham Water the some of twoe hundred pownds as vpon agreeñt of his marriage was concluded. Vnto Anne Gliston wife of Henry Gliston Docter of Phizick ffyftie pownds. Vnto Elizabeth Peck wife of Samuell Peck of Chelmsford, Gent, ffyftie pownds. Vnto Joane Mildmay daughter of Thomas Mildmay of Finchingfeild ffowertie pownds at the age of eighteene yeeres. Vnto Robert Mildmay sonne of Anthony Mildmay of Woodbridge in the countie of Suffolck the some of twentie pownds at the age of one and twentie yeeres. Vnto John Stalham o^r minnester the some of ffine pownds. Vnto my brother John Goodwyn, Esq^r and my cozen John Maidstone Gent. the some of three pownds a peece to make them rings, whom I doe request to be superuisors of this my will. All the rest of my goods I giue to my loueing wife Joane Mildmay whom I make sole executrix: she not to suffer any wast or spoyle of my houses woods or lands at Tarling w^{ch} I haue entaled vpon hir dureing hir naturall life. Probat 13 July 1646 iuramento Joanne Mildmay, excutricis. Arch. Colch. Wills, 1646-47, No. 21.

The seal affixed to this will has the arms of Mildmay with a mullet for difference. The testator was son of John Mildmay of Cretingham. Anne Gliston and Elizabeth Peck were sisters of the Robert Mildmay named in the will, who was son-in-law of Dame Amy Mildmay. Anthony Mildmay of Woodbridge was doubtless the son of Thomas Mildmay of Framlingham. See Mildmay pedigrees, pp. 47-48.

Will of Mary Paul, 1737.

Mary Paul of Norwich, widow, 16th March 1737. My moiety of my reputed manor and capital messuage and of all my lands in Polstead, Boxford and Assington in the county of Suffolk, also moiety of messuage and lands in Mendlesham in the said county, unto my loving sister Sarah Fones.
